Soviet Troops Staying In Cuba, Senator Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a direct challenge of President Kennedy's reassurances on Soviet troop withdrawals, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating charged today there has been "no substantial reduction" of Soviet military forces in Cuba since mid-November.

Keating, a New York Republican, said in a speech prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors that he has information that new Soviet arrivals have about matched the departures.

"There were and are in the neighborhood of 17,000 men there," said the senator. "No functional units have been withdrawn."

More Coming In?

Kennedy, who will address the editors' annual meeting Friday, told his April 3 news conference that some 4,000 Soviet troops had left in the preceding month, in addition to the 5,000 pulled out in November.

At the height of last fall's crisis over Soviet missile bases in Cuba, there were an estimated 21,000 to 22,000 Soviet troops on the island. So the President's report indicated a remaining total of only 12,000 or 13,000.

Keating—resuming with relish his role as a foremost Republican critic of Kennedy's Cuban policies—drew afresh on the undisclosed intelligence sources with which he has been challenging the administration for months.

"Several thousand personnel have left Cuba, several thousand more have arrived," he said.

"Furthermore, they should not be called troops when they are on their way out and technicians when they are on their way in.

"There is no reliable evidence whatsoever of a decline in Soviet military strength or capability since those first withdrawals in November."

Ships Not Searched

He charged also that some U.S. Navy ships have specific orders not to searchlight the small vessels which he said constantly ply Cuban and Caribbean waters at night. He mentioned "Navy personnel" as his source of this information.

Despite U.S. surveillance designed to block the shipment from Cuba of "weapons, personnel and other tools of subversion" to other Latin-American countries, Keating told the editors:

"None of these ships are ever searched by U.S. patrols.

"How can we hope to get evidence of support of subversion," he went on, "if we don't investigate these small scale but very numerous operations?

"I have never been impressed by the view that we are going to gain any concessions by relaxing pressure on the Soviets."

Keating was the first major speaker before the 450 editors who, later in the afternoon, were to hear from the administration's first team in foreign policy—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretaries George W. Ball and W. Averell Harriman.

Tornadoes Slash Across 3 States; One Dead, 60 Hurt

By The Associated Press

Storms diminished across the Midwest today after destructive tornadoes and damaging thunderstorms ripped across areas in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. One person was killed, scores were injured and property damage was extensive. Some 200 persons were made temporarily homeless.

The hardest hit region was in the area of Kankakee, Ill., a city of some 28,000 about 45 miles south of Chicago. A tornado cut a path 300 yards wide and 3 miles long, first striking on the edge of Kankakee and skipping into nearby Bourbonnais and five other communities.

Bourbonnais, a community of 3,335, suffered the heaviest property damage, estimated at $2 million by Leon Blandette, village president. Sandra Rivard, 24, was killed as she fled from her home with her three-month old daughter.

The infant and some 60 other persons in the area were injured, 10 seriously. About 200 persons were forced from their wrecked and damaged homes. The storm caused extensive damage to buildings on the campus of Olivet College.

The twister moved eastward into northern Indiana, across northern Jasper County, injuring 18 persons and causing an estimated $300,000 damage to property. Three of the injured were reported in critical condition. All of the injured live near Gifford, 10 miles northeast of Rensselaer.

Lesser damage from wind storms were reported in Monroe County, Mich., where electricity was cut off to about 1,000 homes. Tornadic winds hit near Coldwater, overturning a trailer and seriously injuring the only occupant, Asa E. Weaver, 86.

The violent weather was caused by the clash of warm moist air from the Gulf and the cool air moving south from Canada.

Near blizzard conditions were reported in Flagstaff, Ariz., with strong winds, snow, and temperatures in the 20s. The snow spread into parts of Utah, Idaho, Colorado and Wyoming.

Five Children Die In Grayling Fire

GRAYLING (AP) — A frame house burst into flames and burned to death the five children who were sleeping inside today.

A babysitter escaped unharmed but the blaze took the lives of the three young sons and two daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth Moes, 28, who was away at the time.

The victims were Barbara Lynn, 9; John David, 7; Scott Allen, 5; James, 4, and the youngest daughter, Billie Faye, 2.

Grayling firemen said a space heater apparently became overheated and set the house afire about midnight.

The babysitter, Judy Cook, 17, of Grayling, a sister of Mrs. Moes, was awakened by smoke and flames while sleeping on a downstairs couch and ran from the house, state police said.

She was blocked from returning to the house to rescue the youngsters.

Authorities were trying today to locate the children's father, William, who is divorced from Mrs. Moes. He was believed to be living in Waterloo, Ind.

Grayling firemen fought the blaze for about two hours before they could enter the house to recover the burned bodies.

The youngest boy, James, was reported sleeping downstairs and the other four upstairs in the one and a half story house.

Police said two of the children sleeping upstairs apparently were awakened and tried to flee but were trapped at the head of the stairs.

Grayling firemen called in the state fire marshal for an investigation of the tragedy.

Ban On Paddling Students Retained In Capital Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ban on paddling of students stays in force in District of Columbia schools under a 5-4 vote taken by the school board after heated debate on a corporal punishment proposal by Supt. Carl F. Hansen.

The board in a long session Wednesday did, however, go along with Hansen's disciplinary suggestions to the extent of voting for indefinite suspension of unruly pupils. But that has to lie over until the May meeting, awaiting a ruling on how it squares with the capital's laws.

Much of the heat in the discussion was generated by Mordecai Johnson, former president of Howard University and a board member.

Johnson, in a 30-minute speech, accused Hansen of being "out of touch" with disciplinary problems before the Thanksgiving Day football game riot that precipitated the discipline issue.

The melee in D.C. Stadium broke out after a championship game between one school attended preponderantly by Negroes and another made up mostly of whites.

Auto Club Backs Use Of Seatbelts

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Club of Michigan gave its first public endorsement today of seat belts in passenger cars.

Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club director of safety and traffic, said the endorsement was based on an exhuaaistive study he has completed for the club. His report has been sent to Michigan's 750 high school driver education teachers.

"Seat belts are one of the most practical devices on the market today for safely 'packaging' automobile occupants, and should be worn any time a car is in motion," Davis said. "They restrain people and declerate their bodies at the same rate as the cars in which they are riding, minimizing or eliminating injuries."

Train Hits Truck Near Charlotte; 18 Persons Hurt

CHARLOTTTE (AP) — Three crew men and at least 15 passengers of a Grand Trunk Western train were injured in a collision with a heavily loaded steel truck at a city crossing today.

Two of the train crew, engineer Arnold Silver and fireman Jack Molette, were reported in critical condition later in a hospital.

The train, bound from Montreal to Chicago, smashed into the truck at Packard Street crossing just within the city limits, spilling the truck's contents.

One of the two diesel engines of the five-car train caught fire. Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to the rest of the train.

Cars All Derailed

The truck driver, Duane Lancaster of Grand Rapids, was quoted at the Eaton County sheriff's office as saying "I'm lucky to be alive."

All the five passsnger cars and a baggage car were derailed along with the two engines.

Some of the stranded passengers were taken to a church in this little southern Michigan city to await other transportation.

Silver suffered a broken arm, internal injuries and head injuries. Molette had severe head lacerations. Both had been trapped in the wreckage.

Both crewmen, along with the injured passengers, were treated at Hayes-Green-Beach hospital here.

Boyd Rowe of Sturgis, the train's mail clerk, bumped his head on the roof of the baggage car at the impact. He was not seriously hurt.

Wreck Blocks Tracks

Eighty-six passengers, many of them Canadians, were riding in the five passenger cars.

Both tracks of the railway were blocked by the wreckage but Grand Trunk officials said they hoped to have one track clear by early afternoon.

Police Chief Bart Howell said Lancaster told officers he did not see the train.

Howell quoted Lancaster as saying he stopped his truck at the crossing, and, upon seeing no train, drove onto the tracks.

Panama Wants Canal Zone Back

PANAMA (AP)—Panama will urge the United States to abandon control of the Canal Zone and turn the strip back to the Panamanians, David Samudio, planning director, said today.

Samudio said the Panamanian government is content to have the United States continue operating the Panama Canal, but it wants Panamanians to take over industrial and commercial operations in the zone.

Markups General In Steel Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry was in the mop-up stage today of its first successful drive for a significant price increase since 1958.

All but a comparative handful of steel firms had posted markups, mostly averaging three per cent or less, on a narrow range of big-tonnage products. The rear guard was falling in line rapidly.

There was still no direct word on their actions from President Kennedy beyond qualified recognition a week ago that some boosts probably were justifiable and a caution to steelmen against going too far.

However, the President kept in close touch throughout. He was expected to be drawn out on his views in an appearance Friday before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The character and handling of the pricing move contrasted markedly with an abortive effort a year ago for an across-the-board increase.

It took eight days for the initial price rise, by Wheeling Steel Corp., to spread somewhat unevenly through the industry. The pitched battle of April 1962 over across-the-board increases ended in a roll-back within 72 hours.

The selective increases this year left some questions that divided close observers and might take a long time to answer conclusively.

Will prices of steel-made consumer goods rise appreciably? How, if at all, will the results affect wage-price stability, a key administration goal with ramifications for the entire economy?

Frederick Kappel, board chairman of the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Co., made clear Wednesday that he doesn't share the President's concern in this area.

The boosts "may be a blessing in disguise to the economy" Kappel told the AT&T annual meeting.

The executive, who also is chairman of the Business Council, a sort of Who's Who of industry, said he thought Kennedy's standaside role of recent days bolstered business confidence.

Tape Recording Draws Fire In Murder Retrial

MUSKEGON (AP) — A nevermentioned-until-now tape recording was expected to draw defense fire today in the Circuit Court trial of Herman Barmore on a murder charge.

It allegedly dents a claim that Barmore admitted, as part of a deal with former Sheriff Arthur Davis, the July 5, 1955 fatal shooting of Peter Gorham, 12.

Testimony indicates the admission on May 9, 1957 was made in the sheriff's office with only the two men present.

Barmore was convicted of second degree murder in the case in November, 1957, and sentenced to life but won an appeal for a new trial. He planned further cross - examination of Davis today.

Mother Quizzed In Baby Deaths

HILLSDALE (AP) — A young mother who told authorities her 18-day-old son fell off a chair onto a cement floor last April 11 is held in Hillsdale County Jail for investigation. Police said the child's death was similar to the death of another baby a year ago.

State police arrested Mrs. Nancy Leyh, 21, of Waldron, at her home Wednesday.

Police said Mrs. Leyh called the Hillsdale coroner April 11 and reported her son, Vincent, was dead.

She told police she picked the child off the floor, comforted him, and put him in his crib, finding him dead later.

An autopsy showed the child had suffered upper respiratory trouble.

Later, it was recalled that a 6-week-old daughter, Athena, died in May, 1962. Her death also was caused by a fall off a chair, the mother said. No autopsy was made in this case, state police said.

Prosecutor James Parker said he was investigating the case.

Dixie On Fence, Rockefeller Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Any GOP presidential candidate with a "constructive program" could "carry the South," says Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller, mentioned widely as a potential 1964 presidential candidate, said Wednesday the South "is going to surprise a lot of people" and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., or any other Republican candidate might well carry it. He did not mention himself as a possibility.

Civil Rule Wanted

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Students who played a major role in the 1960 revolt which ousted former President Syngman Rhee demanded today that South Korea's military regime restore civil rule.

Pearson Becomes Prime Minister Of Canada Monday

OTTAWA (AP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson will take the oath as Canada's 14th prime minister Monday, heading the country's second successive government without guaranteed majority support in the House of Commons.

Gov. Gen. Georges P. Vanier named Pearson to take over after Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker resigned, effective Monday. His Conservative party trailed Pearson's Liberals in the national elections April 8.

After his conference with Vanier Pearson said he hopes to meet with President Kennedy late this month or early in May. He said he plans to see British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan before going to Washington.

Three Votes Short

Pearson said he hopes to call the new Parliament into session May 16.

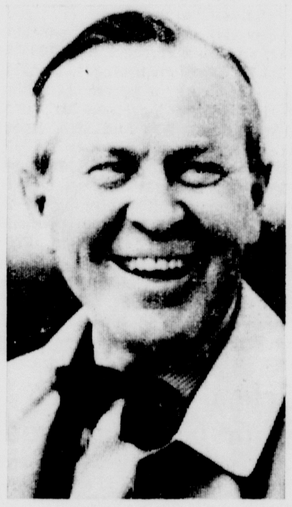

As Pearson got the official nod, the Social Credit party announced that six of its members who had pledged formally to back the Liberal leader had withdrawn their pledges.

Thus Pearson will be three votes short of a majority in the new 265-member Parliament. His Liberals have 130 seats, the Conservatives 94, Social Credit 24 and the New Democratic party 17.

However, Social Credit Leader Robert N. Thompson said his party will support Pearson as it did Diefenbaker—with no specific demands or conditions attached—"as long as it brings in sound legislation."

Missiles High On List

Pearson said that after taking the oath of office Monday, he will begin the "60 days of decision" he promised during the campaign, a period he said would produce more constructive proposals than any government in history.

Lester Pearson

High on the list will be the question of accepting U.S. nuclear warheads for Canada's Bomarc missiles and its air force units serving with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in West Germany.

U.S. criticism of the Conservative government's refusal to accept the warheads was one factor in the government's ovrthrow. Pearson said Canada should make good on its pledge to take the nuclear arms, then negotiate with the United States to get rid of them.

Fare Of 10 Cents May Be Added To School Bus Bill

LANSING (AP)—An amendment to establish 10-cent fares on school buses awaits the arrival of the so-called parochial school bus bill at the next stop on its trip through the legislature.

Rep. Lloyd Anderson, R-Pontiac, stunned fellow House members and touched off a parliamentary wrangle Wednesday when he announced his plan to offer the amendment.

"I agree it's an unusual idea," he said, "but I think it's time people realized school buses are not free transportation."

The controversial bill would require public school districts servicing their own students with bus rides to furnish the same for parochial and private school students living within their borders.

Far Down List

The measure is far down on the list of legislation awaiting debate by the House.

Anderson said his amendment would provide school districts with power to collect the fares at 10 cents per ride, up to $1 a week per student, and put the money into their general funds.

School boards would be given power to waive the fares in hardship cases, he said.

In other activity, a Democratic-sponsored drive to have a bill setting up a state civil rights commission freed from committee failed to muster sufficient support.

On a 44-46 vote that followed party lines but found 13 Republicans and seven Democrats not voting, a demand to have the State Affairs Committee discharged from further consideration of the bill was defeated.

In the Senate, a bill requiring the removal of inactive registrations from election files every two years instead of every four touched off a heated debate.

Aimed At Vote Frauds

"This is one of the most politically motivated bills ever to come before us," declared Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, in urging that the measure be killed by sending it back to committee.

"If you're for honest government and clean government, you're for this bill," insisted Sen. Stanley Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, Senate majority leader.

Brown charged the measure was aimed at holding down the vote in traditionally Democratic Wayne County.

Thayer said the purpose of the bill was to reduce the chance of vote frauds by eliminating so-called "deadwood" from the voter registration rolls every two years instead of every four.

After the 1958 election, he said, several hundred cases were discovered in Detroit where votes were cast by people whose addresses turned out to be vacant lots, garages and abandoned warehouses.

Metamora Bank Bandit Hunted

METAMORA (AP) — Lapeer County sheriff's officers and other law enforcement officials hunted today for possible clues in the armed robbery of the Metamora State Bank.

The bandit, carrying a sawed-off deer rifle, escaped with about $4,600 Wednesday after ordering four persons to lie on the floor and telling Assistant Cashier Everett Perkins to bind them with adhesive tape.

He then bound Perkins' feet with a belt and fled.

The amount of money stolen had first been estimated at $10,000.

Sgt. York Suffers From Blood Clot

York, 75, was hospitalized Saturday after complaining of chest and shoulder pains. The World War I hero has been bedridden at his farm home in Pall Mall, Tenn. since suffering a stroke eight years ago.

Canvassers Quit, Await Supreme Court Decision

LANSING (AP) — Democrats have won by a walkout in their fight to stall official certification by the Board of State Canvassers of the April 1 vote approving a new state Constitution.

The two Democratic members of the four-man board left the two Republican members sitting frustrated by walking out after hours of legal wrangling Wednesday.

The walkout gave Democrats time to:

--Wait for a State Supreme Court decision on a contention that the election was invalid.

--Let experts assigned by the Democratic State Central Committee check precinct-by-precinct to decide if the party should ask for a recount.

Margin of 7,829

The board was presented with figures showing 811,098 votes for and 803,269 votes against the new document, a passage margin of 7,829.

Melvin Nord, Detroit attorney and former Democratic delegate of the Constitutional Convention, appeared before the board to argue for delay.

Nord has filed a suit contending the Constitution vote is invalid because the issue of the document appeared on voting machines along with partisan candidates for office.

"If you approve this canvass today, you will announce a death sentence. There will be no appeal for approval of the vote," he said.

"Are you serious?" asked Mrs. Zoe Burkholz of Benton Harbor, the outspoken Republican on the board in favor of approval. She argued that there are all kinds of court possibilities to follow an adoption of the official canvass.

Board Deadlocked

Chairman David Lebenbom tried several times to get the hopelessly deadlocked board to adjourn. He said it was traditional that state boards do not act while an issue affecting them is before the State Supreme Court.

Auditor General Billie Farnum explained why he wanted a delay over the weekend.

He has been asked by the Democratic Party, Farnum said, to give a precinct-by-precinct analysis of the election returns.

"If you certify the election now I will never get it done," he said.

"I'll sit here all night until this board does its duty," declared Mrs. Burkholz.

"You made a lot of fuss today, you attacked our integrity," complained Mrs. Esther Waite of East Lansing, a Democrat.

Carl Lindquist of Iron Mountain, the other Republican on the board, announced he agreed with Mrs. Burkholz.

In a series of swift moves, Lebenbom first asked for an adjournment, then for a recess.

When neither were approved, he and Mrs. Waite walked out.

"We'll be back to make a quorum after the Supreme Court decision," he promised.

Car Windshields Smashed By Hail

By The Associated Press

The first mean storm of spring raked Michigan with damaging winds and hailstones up to 2¾ inches thick Wednesday night, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

A vicious wind near Coldwater tipped over the house trailer of Asa E. Weaver, 86, injuring him critically. Branch County Sheriff's Office said two persons described the wind as a funnel cloud, but the Weather Bureau said it had no reports of tornadoes.

The largest hailstones officially reported 2¾ inches, fell at Milan, smashing car windshields and damaging airplanes on the ground at the Milan Airport.

Other large hail fell south of Jackson and at Fenton.

Monroe County sheriff's officers said winds ripped roofs from three homes, drove baseball-size hail through more than 1,000 windows and did other damage in an area five miles north of Monroe.

Several persons in Monroe and its suburbs reported tornado-like cloud formations.

Robert Meiring, operator of 13 greenhouses, reported hail shattered some 20,000 window panes.

First Ore Boat Due Here Friday

The big ore carrier Edward L. Ryerson of Inland Steel Co. fleet will arrive in Escanaba harbor Friday morning, first ore vessel of the season at the Chicago & North Western dock.

L. A. McMillan, North Western dock agent, said the Ryerson will take on 21,200 tons of ore for Indiana Harbor. After unloading on her initial trip the Ryerson will return to Escanaba immediately for another cargo.

Last year the Ryerson also opened the ore shipping season at Escanaba, arriving on April 17.

The North Western's goal here this season is five million tons, McMillan said. Last year because of the 30-day railroad strike the total was under five million.

The Ryerson and her commanding officer, Capt. G. Fisher, will be welcomed at ceremonies being arranged by Don Trowbridge chairman of the greeters committee, and Walter Lewke, Chamber of Commerce manager.

Scheduled to come here today, the Ryerson experienced some difficulty in unloading a winter cargo and did not clear from Indiana Harbor until 10:20 a.m. today.

Haulaway Bill Is Like Tennis Ball

LANSING — Chairman George Wyatt of the Michigan Railroads Association today warned Michigan motorists that they can't relax their opposition to legislation for longer trucks just because such a bill was shot down for the second time this session in the Senate this week.

The Hogan Bill, sponsored by Rep. Henry M. Hogan, Jr., (R-Oakland) which sought to add 11 feet to haulaway auto carriers, allowing them a legal limit of 66 feet, has been back and forth as both bill and amendment between the House and Senate like a tennis ball.

Wyatt said the legislation, as House Bill 316, has already been voted out of a House committee, passed by the House, killed by a Senate committee, tacked onto a Senate bill as an amendement in the House, passed again by the House and then on Tuesday defeated in the Senate. After this defeat the House moved to send it to a conference committee of representattives and senators. Wyatt urged motorists to contact their legislators in an effort to bury the bill for good.

The bill would permit highway haulaway operators to carry one and possibly two more cars on their equipment. Fundamentally the bill is a weapon in a rate fight and it is being opposed by the railroads and pushed by the truckers.

The present length of trucks present hazards in passing and longer trucks would increase this hazard. Railroads, struggling for survival under heavy taxation, seek this car haul business and urge that it be kept off the busy highways.

Truckers point out that border states like Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin permit longer trucks on their highways than does Michigan, but Ohio, on the other hand, has a limit 5 feet less than Michigan's. The bill would aid Michigan truckers and hurt Michigan railroads. There is a third element of public motoring interest which looms larger than either of the forces pushing for and against the bill.

Singers Observe 25th Anniversary

Barbershop singers of the Escanaba-Gladstone area will have two singing engagements this week as their organization, Escanaba Chapter, SPEPSQSA, joins in observing the 25th anniversary of barbershop singing in America. Tonight the local Bay de Noc barbershop chorus will put on a program for inmates of the state branch prison at Marquette, leaving at 5 p. m. for an early program hour to conform to the prison curfew. Saturday the chorus will sing at the Gladstone Yacht Club at 9 p. m. as a part of the program for the yacht club's annual smelt fry fest.

This week the SPEBSQSA celebrates its 25th Anniversary and it has become the world's largest all-male singing fraternity. Some 28,000 men now join together weekly in over 675 communities in the United States and Canada to preserve the old songs and a native music art form.

April 15-21 has been designated as International Barbershop Harmony Week and across North America city and state officials are lending their support and congratulations to these happy men of harmony.

Parcel Post May Shut Down July 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

POST OFFICE: Postmaster General J. Edward Day has hinted parcel post service may be shut down July 1 and Saturday mail deliveries suspended.

What may lead to an end of parcel post, Day told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee on Wednesday, is "an impossible hodgepodge of legislation" that he said would require radical increases in the rates for handling packages.

Day tied the chance for suspension of Saturday service — and possible denial of service to new homes and businesses—to the $92 million cut by the House from the $6-billion Post Office-Treasury appropriation bill.

The Senate subcommitttee chairman, A. Willis Robertson, didn't give Day cause for much cheer. Only about one-fourth of what the House cuts is eventually restored before Congress completes its work on the budget, the Virginia Democrat told the postmaster general.

The parcel post situation stems from a provision requiring the department to set parcel post rates so that revenues for this service are within 4 per cent of costs.

The department loses money on parcel post—it accounts for $127 million of the $231-million deficit expected in the year ahead—and, if the provision is followed, Day said, over-all rates would have to go up at least 25 per cent and the rates on smaller packages about 40 per cent.

Appealing for a Senate rider to cancel the 4-per-cent formula for a year, Day described the provision as self-defeating. His reasoning: The increase in rates will drive away business, throwing parcel post deeper in the red.

Blue Shield Rate Boost Due June 1

DETROIT (AP) — Blue Shield said today it will boost its rates 19.3 per cent starting June 1 despite lack of approval from the State Insurance Department.

"We'll stop them," Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn retorted.

The rate hike controversy hit a peak Wednesday night when Blue Shield directors ended a six-hour meeting and deputy executive director Frank O. Starr announced:

"The rate increase is being put into effect without further reference to the insurance commissioner."

"This flagrant action will not go unchallenged," Colburn said. "It shows complete and utter disregard for regulatory authority."

Colburn planned to meet today to discuss regulatory aspects with the state attorney general's office.

The blowup comes just a day after Colburn announced he and Blue Cross, the hospital insurance service, had reached final agreement on terms of a 23.4 per cent average increase. The Blue Cross hike is scheduled to start June 1. It will add some $40 million to the hospital service's income.

With Blue Shield, no mention was made of the 22.9 per cent rate hike it asked recently after Colburn rejected an earlier 23.9 per cent increase.

"Three months of discussion with the insurance commissioner have proved fruitless," Starr said. "It is necessary for Blue Shield to take this aciton to avert imminent insolvency. The health care protection for 3.5 million Michigan citizens is at stake."

Colburn said the action was "disgraceful" and that it "would indicate they (Blue Shield) think of themselves as being mightier than the laws of the State of Michigan."

With the hospital service, Blue Cross, the 23.4 per cent average increase is designed to balance its income and outlay for 18 months following June 1.

Encourage Small Industries, Local Businessmen Told

By JAMES G. WARD JR.

"We can't emphasize too much the importance of helping and encouraging local small industry in your efforts to procure more industry for your community," L. E. Gilbert, vice president of the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, told Escanabans on the recent tour of Minneapolis development areas.

"By all means, don't overlook small industry, the man with an idea who has a good product but lacks marketing know-how the man who employs two or three men but with a potential of 250 men."

Gilbert proceeded to cite a Minneapolis example of just such a case, a small industrialist who now employs 250 workers because he got the proper encouragement and help.

Right At Home

"Why spend all your time searching for an industry employign 250 workers when you might have a potential of 250 right in your own town? Actually, there are only 200 company moves a year in the entire United States," Gilbert said in stressing his point to keep an eye on taking care of existing industry at home already established and possibly with a greater potential.

'Minneapolis lost a big industry at one time because it did not have 80 acres readily available," he said. "So 30 corporations went out and bought land, and now we have a dozen industrial parks surrounding Minneapolis."

One such park is the Valley Industrial Park in nearby Shakopee, Minn., which has 2,250 acres, 658 used for research and including 276 acres served by water, a nine-foot depth dredged shipping canal (mostly barge) through 14.9 miles of the Minnesota river to the Mississippi River outlet to New Orleans. A 6.4-mile extension serves the Valley Industrial Park at Shakopee. Other industrial acreage in this park is served by rail and truck.

Suburban Growth

Gilbert, en route during the afternoon bus tour at Shakopee, pointed out as an example the Owens-Ill. Paper Products Division, a $2,500,000 plant on 77 acres served by rail, a plant large enough to unload five rail cars under cover at one time. It has 12 huge semi-trailer trucks serving seven Midwest states.

Asked about Minneapolis' population, Gilbert said a five-county greater Minneapolis area has a population of 1,500,000, a growth of 300,000 in the last few years while the city of Minneapolis proper was declining 40,000, thus indicating the residential move to the suburbs and business and industry growth in the city. During the tour, Gilbert pointed out several new Shopping Centers, complete units serving all family wants. One such center is Southdale which he referred to as one of the largest shopping centers in the United States.

"The key to industrial development is a research institute available to all, even to your community and others throughout the nation," Gilbert explained. "Our North Star Center Research Institute serves us and could well serve your community.

City Moving Up

"It is a non-profit corporation that does extensive research on products, marketing and other facets important to industry. It is well prepared to help the man with a product and an idea. The Northern States Power Company also is doing considerable research in its program."

Incidentally, the Northern States Power Company, which supplies electric power to the Minneapolis area, has a new main office building under construction just this year on Nicollet Avenue between Fourth and Fifth Streets.

Another new building on the 1963 starting schedule in Gateway Center (downtown Minneapolis) is the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. home office, designed by Minoro Yamasaki, Japanese architect who designed Cobo Hall in Detroit, Mich. This structure will have a spectacular colonnaded portico across Nicollet Avenue.

Add that to the beautiful skyways serving North Star Center and the practical multi-level ramp-served auto parking areas, such as the one pictured above, and you readily appreciate the fact that busy Minneapolis is moving up, literally as well as figuratively.

What To Offer

The afternoon tour closed with a bus visit to the privately owned Rauenhorse Industrial Park at 78th and Normandie Road, which contains Control Data offices, producers of complicated computers, and other industries. Rauenhorse even has his private 9-hole course for tired executives.

Control Data, incidentally, is a prime example of Gilbert's earlier point that small industry can become big if given proper encouragement and assistance. It is the direct outgrowth of a group of engineers formerly employed with and trained by Remington Rand who formed a corporation and went out on their own.

"In searching for industry, you must consider what you have to offer," Gilbert remarked. "First of all, consider that a company is interested in making money. Concentrate on industries that your particular city can best serve. Consider the market, available labor and availability of the kind of transportation that a certain industry requires."

And in closing his reference to encouragement to small industry, he emphasized that sustained interest and followup activity is of utmost importance.

To provide much-needed parking space for office workers and to keep shoppers happy, the trend in Minneapolis is definitely toward this type of multi-level automobile parking area served by winding ramps. This one is in Gateway Center in downtown Minneapolis in the glittering area replete with new buildings which once was a run-down bowery and skid row. The North Star Center development has parking on seven of its 15 floors, enough for 1,000 cars or the equivalent of a 10-acre parking area. (Daily Press Photo)

Wisconsin Gets Blue Shield Policy On Drug Expense

MADISON—The first prescription drug health insurance policy offered by a Blue Shield plan in this country has been placed on sale by Wisconsin Physicians Service, the health insurance plan of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin.

The policy will be available to both groups and individuals in Wisconsin.

Dr. E. M. Dessloch, chairman of the medical society's Commission on Medical Care Plans, pointed out that drug costs account for nearly one-fourth of total health care expenditures in this country, close to the amount spent for physicians' services.

The new contract will cover those drugs for which federal law requires a prescription and will pay the druggist's "customary, usual and reasonable" charges for those drugs which fit the contract definitions.

The new contract will cost $7.80 per year for an individual and $18 per year for a family It is subject to a deductible feature of $25 for those under age 65 and $50 for those 65 and over, for individuals and small groups, and a straight $25 for all individuals regardless of age in groups with 25 or more members.

Need Utmost Care To Prevent Fires

Whipped by 40-mile winds and feeding on tinder-dry grass and brush, numerous forest fires raged in the Escanaba area until the last was brought under control by fire fighters Wednesday evening.

Escanaba Fire Chief Nels Bergeon said the situation is alarming and that yesterday's fire in the Old State Road-S. 23rd St., area was halted just short of destroying many homes and other buildings.

Starting up about 1:50 p. m., from a grass fire, the blaze raced through grass and small trees, exploding into a wall of flame that for a time drove the fire fighters ahead of it. The southwest wind pushed the blaze about the Wendell Erickson place, destroying a barn, chicken coop and playhouse on Old State Road.

No Burning Permits

Continuing its spread, the fire traveled to the rows of houses along S. 23rd St., blistering the paint on the George Frantz home at 1422 and causing some damage to the Vern Boyle dwelling at 1305 S. 23rd St. Young evergreen trees in the area exploded into pillars of flame.

State and city and county fire fighters joined in battling the blaze. There were 11 fires during the day, extending from Escanaba and Wells to M 35.

The Fire Chief joined other officials in pleading for the cooperation of parents in keeping matches out of the hands of children.

John Chriske, supervisor of the Escanaba District, Department of Conservation, said that because of the danger all burning permits are revoked.

Battled All Day

"We have been allowing burning during the evening hours, but these permits also are revoked until the danger subsides," he said.

Chriske said that in all of his long experience with the department he had never seen such inflammable conditions combined as those of yesterday: High winds, a burning index of 100 which is as dangerous as it can become, and a relative humidity down to 9 — which Chriske said is as dry as Arizona desert.

The Conservation Department fire fighters plus hired labor to a total of 50 men battled fires all day Wednesday in the Escanaba District, which includes Delta, Marquette and the west half of Alger counties.

There were 16 fires yesterday in the District and of this total seven were started by children, five by sparks from garbage burners, and four for other causes. About 100 acres were blackened.

Will Be Prosecuted

"Every piece of equipment we have plus the Delta County Highway Commission tanker and crew and the Escanaba Fire Department were out during the day and it is still a wonder that more property was not destroyed," said Chriske. "Prompt and effective control saved a number of buildings, I know."

Strict law enforcement will be in effect to curb the rash of fires, he added.

"Anyone not taking proper precautions in using garbage burners and allows the fires to spread to become grass or forest fires will be prosecuted," Chriske added.

"Parents have a definite responsibility under the law and when children play with matches and start fires that destroy property, the parents are subject to civil suit for damages. Irresponsible parents leave themselves wide open when they fail to control the criminal acts of their children," he said.

Violations of the fire control laws makes the individual subject to penalties of fine of $100, 90 days in jail, or both upon conviction.

LENGTHY BRIDGE

The Lake Pontchartrain Causeway, a two-lane concrete bridge spanning Lake Pontchartrain, in Louisiana, is the world's longest over - water highway bridge, extending 23.83 miles across the lake north to south.

Minnesota Like Michigan Seeks New Mine Jobs

Minnesota is going through the same citizen activity of decision about mineral industry as Michigan, reports Alfred W. Wilson of Duluth, assistant director of public relations for U.S. Steel Corp. in the Lake Superior District, who visited Escanaba Wednesday.

Minnesota will vote in November, 1964 on an amendment to its constitution which would assure mining companies that their operations would not for 25 years be taxed any heavier than any other business in the state. Minnesota has been piling the taxes on iron mining because it is a wasting industry with an inevitable end when the ore is gone and no more opportunity for tax income.

The mounting taxes, however, have been a big factor in the flight of mining from the state under competition with higher grade ores and cheaper ores from Canada and overseas suppliers.

Michigan's Legislature has before it several bills to ease taxes on Upper Peninsula iron mining in an effort to save the industry and if possible to enlarge it. Most critical element in the U.P. picture is ore from underground mines, which should be beneficiated (processed to increase its iron content) to make it marketable, but which tends to be too costly to produce for such beneficiation under current taxes.

Minnesota will vote on a guarantee of tax equity for mineral industry under the promise of U.S. Steel Corp. that it will build a 4 million ton - $120 million iron mine plant at Mountain Iron if the amendment is enacted. Ford Motor Co. and Ogleby-Norton Co. are committed to build a plant to produce 2 million tons of concentrates a year south of Eveleth.

Wilson said there is only one underground mine still operating in Minnesota, the Pioneer at Ely. The Suda Mine of U.S. Steel closed late last year and has been offered to Minnesota as a mine park.

U.S. Steel closed its last mine in the Upper Peninsula, the Geneva on the Gogebic Range, about 8 years ago.

Wilson said that mining areas of the Lake Superior region have clung to the idea that mining companies would never give up properties with 100 years of iron supply on them, but that when the ore becomes unmarketable, as so much of it has because of high cost and low quality, it ceases to have commercial worth.

Minnesota's effort to enact mineral industry tax equity two years ago failed. Now its prospect is much brighter because the U.S. Steelworkers are for it and both the Republican and Democratic Farmer Labor parties are for it.

Wilson said that U.S. Steel has two geologists working out of Norway on "routine investigations of its mineral reserve properties on the Menominee Range." Wilson said "this goes on all the time." He said that there was no special scignificance nor indication of new mine development in the activity.

Price Of Steel

President Kennedy bludgeoned U.S. Steel Corp. into retracting a steel price increase a year ago, but another round of steel price increases is underway. Murder will out and so will economics. Government may cry down economic facts but inexorably they will assert themselves.

The costs of steel making increase and so the prices must increase. The process is inflationary and so government properly fears it. But government is much more sensitive to the politics of controlling inflation by curbing demands for increased wages than it is to the economics of controlling prices through pressures on industry, so it flirts with inflation.

Walter Harnischfeger, chairman of the board of Harnischfeger Corp. says "I think no one likes to see the price of steel go up. It is a basic heavy industry operated by some very able people and they can best determine what is practical because if an industry doesn't make any money it can't modernize.

"Under our free market economy industry and not government must determine prices."

Not only do American steel companies face competition from other products, but they must also compete with foreign steelmakers. And rapidly rising costs in the American steel industry make the competition very severe—both in U.S. and world markets.

The European Common Market countries had an average hourly steel making employment cost in 1952 of 72 cents and in 1961 of $1.50. The U.S. steel makers had corresponding costs of $2.32 and $3.99 respectively. In Japan the costs were 32 cents and 63 cents. European steel labor costs, as compared with U.S., ranged from 27 percent in Italy to 42 per cent in Luxembourg.

The steel industry says its rising hourly employment costs have been roughly paralleled by increases in other costs. The long term trend in hourly employment costs for steelworkers, as well as total costs for steel companies, has been upward for 20 years at an average rate of about 7.3 per cent per year compounded.

The long term increase in shipments per man hour has been slightly less than 2 per cent a year. Increases in prices haven't bridged the gap between these two rates. Finished steel prices have increased since 1940 at a rate equivalent to about 5 per cent a year.

When employment cost increases consistently outstrip gains in national productivity, spiraling prices are a natural consequence. Inflation comes right along with them, of course.

The situation is one which must be understood and accepted by the American workingman if he's to be protected from its evil consequences. There's little prospect that political leaders are going to have the courage to tell him that he'd better relate wage demands to the reality of world influences now bearing so heavily upon his job security.

Cranes Diminish

Here's the latest dispatch on the big annual cliff-hanger. They can count only 28 whooping cranes as the annual northward flight starts from winter quarters in Texas.

That's four less than arrived in Texas from the summer nesting area near Great Slave Lake in Canada last fall.

To make matters even gloomier, the 28 are 10 fewer than departed northward last spring.

Our sympathy with the underdog makes statistics like this important in this country. Yeah, cranes!

The U. S. Department of the Interior has made 38 aerial counts of the wintering flock since October. Such items as a change in feeding habits from hunting shell fish on the shore flats to foraging amid the scrub oak were noted.

There were several air drops of wheat and milo during the winter.

Next item at hand is to arrange some kind of a safe conduct for the cranes as they make their 2,500-mile flight north.

If you see a bird five-feet tall with red-crowned head and black tips at the end of a seven-foot wing span, do not molest. Consider yourself lucky to have seen such a rare sight and encourage it on its journey.

Body Magic

A tribute to the marvelous mechanism that is the human machine has been offered by the 48-day ordeal of Ralph Flores and Helen Klaben. How they survived for 42 of those days on nothing but water after crash-landing in the frozen Yukon is explained by the American Medical Association.

When starvation begins, the body turns to its own storehouse of nourishment, and feeds on itself.

First to be used are the stored carbohydrates or sugars, which are gone in a day or two. Then the fat resources are called upon, and most of these go in four to five weeks. Protein then gets the emergency call, and the muscles eventually begin to break down. Almost all parts of the body are reduced in weight.

At the same time, the rate at which the body converts food into energy — its metabolism — slows down. In prolonged starvation, the rate can drop as much as 30 per cent, and the body temperature may drop below the normal 98.6 degrees. This slower burning reduces the body's demand on itself for food.

This is the medical and material explanation of a modern miracle. There will be many who believe that prayer, faith and an indomitable courage and will to live played a big part in cheating death.

Aid To Cubans

Governors—working through the Council of State Governments—have wisely urged their colleagues in many sectors to help ease the Cuban refugee problem.

Up to now, a handful of states have borne the burden. Naturally, Florida, as the great entry port, tops them all by far. There are some 162,000 refugee "cases," which means either families or unattached individuals, awaiting some kind of disposition in Florida.

Where resettlement has occurred, New York is the principal recipient with 10,000 cases. New Jersey has 4,500, Puerto Rico 2,500, California 2,300.

Obviously these places, for the most part, have the double attraction of a broad job market and an existing substantial Latin population.

But if it is to be continuing American policy to provide at least a temporary haven for Cubans fleeing Castro, the burden must in fairness be distributed more widely across the nation.

The settlement process ought to be managed with greater dispatch so that Florida should not, by the accident of proximity to Cuba, have to bear so huge a proportion of what is truly a national problem.

A NEW LEAF

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona makes a headline whenever he speaks, which is daily if not oftener.

The senator's principal stock in trade is an attack on anything and everything the Kennedy administration is trying to do. This is what his millions of fans like to hear.

But every so often he slips in an idea of his own. This usually makes a good story, too. But when you clip the picture puzzle pieces which report his speeches and paste them up to make a political paper doll, you get an amazing image. The question it raises is whether Goldwater—if he should ever be elected president—would do all the things he now says he would do.

The Senator's latest is his statement endorsing Cuban commando raids on Russian merchant ships, even if they kill a few Russians.

Does this mean that "President" Goldwater would actually "unleash" the Cuban Freedom Fighters to commit acts of piracy?

Or would this just be like President Eisenhower's "unleashing" of Chiang Kai-shek to raid the China mainland 10 years ago?

Goldwater's program for Cuba is economic blockade (an act of war) and training Cuban exiles for espionage and sabotage. He opposes U. S. invasion.

Another of his recent solutions for the Cuba situation was to establish a friendly dictator there, like Batista. Goldwater says he has no objection to dictators because they suppress communism when a country is not ready for democracy.

As a reserve Air Force general who has flown jets, Goldwater has warred constantly against Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's civilian control of the Pentagon. His criticisms have been leveled at too frequent changes of policy on the RS-70 and Dyna-Soar, for abandonment of the Skybolt, for delay on Nike Zeus. He charges that not one new weapon has been produced and that this amounts to American disarmament.

Goldwater therefore favors withdrawal from Geneva of U. S. negotiators seeking a nuclear test ban agreement with Russia.

He opposes the idea that the U. S. and U. S. S. R. should agree to any plan for destruction of weapons, bomber for bomber. The senator is, in effect, against disarmament.

He would cut the budget $10 billion without touching defense.

Some of Goldwater's ideas on taxes are of special interest. He would give tax credits for medical expenses (though that would apparently be of no benefit to people too poor to pay taxes as high as their doctor and hospital bills).

He would cut the taxes of home owners by $3 billion to $4 billion so as to give them more money to pay higher local taxes for more public education. (Incidentally, property owners pay real estate taxes to local governments, not to the U. S. Treasury. So this would be cutting federal taxes, and raising local taxes.)

What happens to people who aren't home owners isn't specified.

On Social Security the senator has said that at some future time he would propose making the system voluntary, since he believes the country will start a revolt against it by 1970.

On a U. S. Chamber of Commerce panel, Goldwater defended the strike as the only weapon open to organized labor. He also opposed compulsory arbitration and removal of the unions' immunity from antitrust law prosecution as a monopoly.

Goldwater's own labor program, as revealed in a bill he introduced this year, would provide a 30-day notice of intent to strike, require a secret strike vote if 30 per cent of a union's membership requested it, make unions liable for damage suits for unfair labor practices, and ban compulsory union membership except in states passing laws to approve it. This last would reverse the legality of existing state right-to-work laws.

Goldwater is going to be the star attraction at a $1,000-a-plate Republican dinner in Washington May 9. The GOP pitch is that this will be just the start of a drive to elect more Republicans to Congress next year. Goldwater already has filed as a candidate for re-election to the Senate.

He still insists he is not a candidate for the presidency, and he has tried to discourage all the movements that have sprung up to draft him in California, Indiana, South Carolina, New York City, Chicago and now Washington. "But if people want to waste their time and money," he says, "let them go ahead."

The Doctor Says:

What To Do For Bad Burns

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

One good result of the increased interest in civil defense has been the large number of persons applying for courses in first aid. Since burns, both thermal and chemical, often occur suddenly, everyone should be familiar with approved first aid.

When a hand or arm is burned it should be plunged into cold water, held under a cold tap, or held gently against an ice cube. Quick cooling has been found to relieve pain, reduce the amount of damage to the burned tissue, and reduce the amount of fluid loss from the burned area. As a result healing is speeded up.

For larger burns, the first consideration is to prevent shock and infection. The body sends the liquid part of the blood to a burned area, and if 25 per cent of the body surface is burned, the diversion of this blood serum may seriously deprive vital organs.

This and intense pain are the cause of shock. Shock is combated by having the victim lie down and not get up until a physician comes and gives a pain reliever. Shock is also combated by keeping the body warm. Only the cleanest available dry cloths should be used to cover the burned area, to reduce the chance of infection.

Avoid using any grease, oil, or ointment unless prescribed by a physician. Care must be taken to protect any blisters. Breaking them opens the door to infection.

The commonest chemical burns are those due to strong acids and strong alkalis.

In treating such a burn every second counts. Washing with water is the best first aid measure.

Large amounts of lukewarm running water should be used. Clothes that are soaked with the chemical should be removed while a stream of water is being applied continuously.

A third party should get a neutralizing solution. For an acid burn, two tablespoons of baking soda in a quart of water should be prepared. For an alkali burn one cup of vinegar to a quart of water.

There is an important exception to this procedure. If quicklime has gotten onto the skin, all solid particles must be brushed or wiped off before any water is applied, because when water comes in contact with quicklime enough heat is generated to cause a thermal burn.

When an acid or alkali gets in the eye, immediate washing with water is imperative. The victim is indeed fortunate if a drinking fountain is handy from which a steady stream of water can be applied to the eye. If the burn was due to an alkali, this washing should be continued for at least 30 minutes. The next best thing to a fountain or holding the eye under a gently flowing tap is for the victim to cup his hands and carry water to the eye from a running tap until someone can fill a pitcher.

The sufferer should then lie down while the water is poured gently into the inner corner of the eye. The victim's head should be turned so that the water runs easily out of the eye. While flushing the eye in this way, the lids should be held as widely apart as possible. Prompt and prolonged action in such an emergency is the only possible way to save sight.

Memory Lane

By J. R. LOWELL

Ten Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baldwin, long time resident of Gladstone, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary April 15.

Wells Bowers, supervisor of Mueller township, was elected chairman of the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors at its annual meeting yesterday. George Stephens is the outgoing chairman.

Louis Larsen, 1414 N. 19th St., assistant car foreman at the local North Western shops, retired yesterday after serving the company for the past 43 years.

Twenty Years Ago

Kenneth McIsaac, project manager of the new Escanaba Ore dock construction, has been commissioned colonel in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and has been ordered to report at Washington, D. C., on April 30.

Ella and Leona Bryant, who reside north of Rapid River, are featured in today's Daily Press because they operate a modern farm alone. Their duties include caring for and milking 29 cows and many other duties involving hard work. They are pictured sorting logs and poles they had cut.

John E. Johnson, of Gladstone, Soo Line engineer and employe of the company for the past 48 years, announces his retirement this week.

Thirty Years Ago

A call has gone out from the Delta county chatper of the American Red Cross for expert timber workers. There are many openings at present at the Hiawatha National Forest. This is regarded as a boon to lumberjacks in other areas where there is little work to be had.

A crew of 40 men are now employed widening Highway M-35 on the bluff north of Gladstone.

Charles M. Howard, of Hiawatha township, has been elected chairman of the Schoolcraft county board, supplanting J. W. Gilligan, who held that office the past year.

OUT FOR BLOOD

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Pima County Democratic Committee challenged the county's Republicans to a blood letting contest.

But it was for a good cause.

Both political groups gave blood for the Tucson Chapter of the American Red Cross in a campaign with the theme "Pints for Politics."

The Red Cross said use of the blood would be entirely nonpartisan.

I finally have decided what side of the fence you are on, Ima Gossip.

So you "work in a rumor mill. production has been unusually high in the past few years but your product seems to be slipping." That is true. We know. "Corruption ends when action of an aroused citizenry begins."

I quote from your letter, "It takes a lot of concentrated effort to twist the minds of good people." We find at long last the good people are thinking for themselves and no gossip or propaganda is stopping these same good people from seeking a fair dealing.

HARVEY'S CANAL

In a recent interesting article on Escanaba's Centennial we find the frequently repeated canard, " . . were joined by Charles T. Harvey, who built the first Soo Lock in 1855 . . "

It is unfortunate that this fabrication has been permitted to exist for so many years and that the actual facts in connection with the building of the first ship canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan have been ignored.

Shortly after the work of building the canal was commenced in June, 1853, Harvey, as general agent for the St. Mary's Falls Ship Canal Co., and invested with an almost unlimited authority by this company, took upon himself the duties of an engineer as well as superintendent of construction. There is nothing in the records to indicate that Harvey had any training whatsoever as an engineer or that he was qualified to assume engineering duties.

This became evident late in the season of 1853, and in spite of the glowing accounts of the canal's progress, written by Harvey to the eastern financiers - Fairbanks, Corning and others - the western promotors, located for the most part at Detroit, were far from being satisfied. It required considerable effort on the part of the Detroit men to convince the easterners that Harvey was incapable of building the canal with its complicated locks. However, this was accomplished during the winter of 1853 and Harvey was relieved of his self-imposed duties.

At that time John W. Brooks, vice president of the Canal Co., and an engineering executive of the Michigan Central Railroad at Detroit, took over the full responsibility for the building of the canal. Erastus Fairbanks, then governor of Vermont, and a large investor in the canal project, and who had come to the Sault to see for himself, wrote from that place, under date of June 7, 1854, to Erastus Corning, president of the Canal, at Albany, N.Y., in part, as follows:

"The situation of the canal enterprise is somewhat critical. Mr. Brooks has now been here some two weeks and has done what could be done in putting the works in a shape to be finished this fall, but at every step the difficulties in the way of successfully prosecuting the work become more apparent . Mr. Brooks will be the master spirit directing the whole, while Mr. Harvey retiring from all responsibility respecting 'he construction will find full employ in the general agency of furnishing supplies, disbursing money, etc, etc."

It was in the spring of 1854 that John W. Brooks took over from Harvey the poorly-dug, mile-long ditch and in six month's time developed it into a usable canal, complete with locks. As the canal was not completed until late in the season of 1854 it was not possible to make use of this waterway until June, 1855. It was not until after June 1 that John Burt, the first superintendent, admitted water into the new canal - a procedure which required great care, and it was not until the morning of June 18 that the canal was filled to its required depth permitting the first steamer, the Illinois, to enter the canal.

In Harvey's memoirs one will find little, if any mention, of either John W. Brooks, an outstanding engineer of the era, or of John Burt, one of the principal promotors of the canal. The dead were quickly forgotten!

Insecticides That Linger Need Curb

NEW YORK CITY—The general use of residual insecticides such as DDT for the past 20 years in America has been "a blunder of the first magnitude," according to the National Audubon Society.

In a statement to a pesticides study committee appointed by Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut, Audubon biologist Rolland C. Clement called for a "broad reassessment" of present pest-control methods as recommended by federal and state agricultural and health agencies. He urged abandonment of the outdoor use of DDT and the similar chlorinated-hydrocarbons, or other insecticides that do not readily break down or disappear in nature.

"The fact now stands out clearly—even though it is still denied by many doctrinaire spokesmen for agriculture and the chemical industry—that these residual insecticides are poisoning the whole environment," Clement said.

"For example, DDT, the most widely used of these poisons, not only remains in the soil up to 10 years, but it is poisoning whole food chains. Incidentally, it took us 10 years to discover this, despite the fact that DDT is the most thoroughly studied chemical in use as an insecticide.

"We believe also that half of all the DDT applied by aircraft is carried in suspension in the atmosphere, to be precipated as 'fall-out' far from the original site of application, thus contaminating regions which have never had a direct application of DDT. Despite its gravity, this problem is not now being studied in detail by any federal agency.

"The effects of such chronic poisoning are of course sometimes long delayed and difficult to detect, but they are now becoming all to evident. The reproductive success of woodcock has been impaired by double exposures to chemicals, on both the northern breeding and southern wintering grounds of this famous game bird. DDT appears to be responsible for mortality in bald eagle embryos and adults, and the failure of the Connecticut coast's osprey population is correlated with high levels of DDT in the eggs. We are, in other words, finding evidence of damage wherever we really look for it."

"Despite my call to eliminate residual insecticides from our outdoor environment," Clement said "I wish to make it plain that I am not unmindful of the usefulness of many insecticidal and herbicidal chemicals.

"I know, furthermore, that many agency and industry research workers have striven valiantly and successfully to perfect safer materials and safer methods of applying them.

"But so long as residual poisons are used out-of-doors, this amounts to doing the best we can with a dangerous situation. There is no reason why citizens should continue to put up with this state of affairs . . . There is no lack of alternatives open to us, either in the form of carefully handled non - residual chemicals, in biological controls, or incultural modifications to keep troublesome insects under control."

So They Say

I am not completely happy with the economic issues, but I guess no one really is. We think we should have gotten more money. — Bertram Powers, president, Local 6, International Typographical Union, on provisional settlement for his union in New York newspaper strike.

Atomic Power Plant Gets OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of operation of a proposed atomic power plant at Lagoona Beach, Mich., has been given by the Atomic Energy Commission's Atomic Safety and Licensing Board.

The board's decision, an AEC spokesman said, authorizes issuance of a license for initial low power operation of the Enrico Fermi Plant.

The decision is subject to review by the commission on petition filed by any party within 20 days or by any order of the commission within 45 days.

The licensing board recommended issuance of an operating license to Power Reactor Development Co. The license would be for the operation at a power level of not in excess of one thermal megawatt.

The board's decision said "there is reasonable assurance that loading to criticality and operation of the reactor at not in excess of 1 megawatt thermal can be conducted without endangering the health and safety of the public."

"IRON POTATOES"

Farmers on Quemoy, island outpost of Nationalist China, harvest "iron potatoes" in the form of Communist shells fired from the mainland. This scrap metal brings them more money than their staple crops of grain, peanuts and potatoes.

West Germany is about the size of Oregon.

Mrs. Dorothy Heller, left, and Mrs. Sandra Matty of Matty's Steak House, Crivitz, Wis., examine glassware at the new Hiawatha Chef Supply building at 400 N. 23rd St., which observed its sixth annual open house for representatives of food serving businesses and institutions Tuesday. (Daily Press Photos)

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, operator of Hiawatha Chef Supply, 400 N. 23rd St., which held its sixth annual open house Tuesday in its new building, are presented with a sales service plate by Russell Hausemann, of Grafton, O., district sales manager of Jackson Vitrified China Co. of Falls Creek, Pa., commemorating the Thompsons' sales promotion achievement.

Food Services Show New Aids

What are the professional cooks doing that the housewife isn't doing in her private kitchen?

Some of the answers to the question were apparent in the busy open house at the Hiawatha Chef Supply's new headquarters in the former National Guard armory building at 400 N. 23rd St. on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, the owners, were hosts at their 6th annual showing of new food service equipment to hundreds of representatives of restaurants, hotels, schools, military establishments and other institutions which serve food.

The open house was the first one in the business' new building, and many manufacturers of food service equipment had representatives on the floor throughout the day.

Among the highlights of the show:

Accent on low calorie dressings for salads.

Soap that kills bacteria in garments without destroying the fabric.

Vinyl plastic matting for public places to end the lawsuits that result when women break off their spike heels in perforated mats and tumble.

Plastic disposable dishes for soda bars and restaurants that are as cheap as paper dishes.

Plastic coated paper cartons for carry-out foods like chow mein, luau, egg foo yung and other exotic foods that are becoming increasing public favorites.

Portion control dishes that help the public food dispensary limit the customer to a profitable helping of tartar sauce, chili sauce, ice cream, etc., in a departure from the old free shake period of catsup bottle, which is becoming as extinct as the pour-your-own bar bottle.

Bottle and can crushers that reduce 5 cases of bottles to a bushel of glass, cans to one-tenth of their uncollapsed size. This little grinder can handle gallon tins or bottles and costs $725.

A new gas fired oven has a heat circulator which speeds baking and makes it more uniform. It cooks a roast in half normal time. For cookies that the recipe calls for 15 menutes baking at 400 degrees F, it finishes them in 7.5 minutes at 325 degrees. For institutions. Cost $882.50.

Table lights that illuminate the menu or your girl's new solitaire. If you want a waitress you can turn on a red light and if she doesn't come running to turn it off it starts blinking. The lights are put away on a charger plate which renews their battery.

Chinaware for public dining in many sizes and shapes and in attractive new decorative motifs. Some dishes are for tray service only and have narrow rims. "A waitress can't handle these without getting her finger in the gravy, but they take less space!"

Electric can openers.

Hamburgers served on a bun with a meat gravy that comes in a can and makes the little steak for hand eating a succulent delight.

More stainless steel utensils.

More knives with saw type blades.

Neutralist Burma Now Spurns West

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Neutralist Burma's once friendly face toward the West is reflecting doubt and suspicion now.

The Burmese strongman, Gen. Ne Win, is systematically routing out all foreign influences within his country, but the West is hurting the most.

His most recent move was to ban all embassies from showing propaganda films outside Rangoon. The distribution of foreign language publications printed outside Burma also has been banned.

Earlier this year, Ne Win virtually eliminated foreign business interests through nationalization.

Burma has a straggling 1,200-mile frontier with Communist China that compels her to tread a careful neutralist path in foreign affairs, diplomats here say.

But they fear that Ne Win, trying hard to unite his country after 14 stormy years of independence, may use the bogey of an imperialistic West to bring this about. He feels he can afford to upset the West, but not China.

Burma tended to be oriented toward the West after Britain gave her independence gracefully in 1948. However, with the rise of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization in neighboring Thailand, Burmese leaders have tended to withdraw into their traditional suspicion of foreigners.

Remnants of the Nationalist Chinese army that moved into Burma in retreat from the Communists have stayed to plague the border areas. Only last year, a riot nearly developed in front of the U.S. Embassy in Rangoon because of alleged American support for these elements.

The Communist Chinese have been playing a careful role with Burma over the years, culminating in the signing of a border agreement beneficial to Burma in 1961.

Subtle Chinese influences continue in Burma, with occasional goodwill visits. Even Ne Win's ruthless suppression of the warring Communist parties within his country, and the nationalization of two Communist Chinese banks, have failed to ruffle the Chinese.

Johnnie Kennedy Needs A Haircut, Floridans Think

TAMPA Fla. (AP)—The tonsorial taste of the First Family has few supporters around Tampa.

The Tampa Times surveyed Tampa citizens for their reaction to the European style haircut 2-year-old John F. Kennedy Jr. sported Easter Sunday.

Some ridiculed it, some criticized it gently, all thought it impractical.

Joe Cucciardo, barber: "If he's a boy he should have a boy's haircut. Otherwise, he looks like a girl. In the picture, it looks like he's wearing some kind of cold weather cap."

Sadie Lobo, school secretary: "He just looks like he needs a haircut and can't afford it."

Doctor Reporting VD Control Hope

Concern over the increasing incidence of syphilis in the United States is expressed on two fronts, accompanied by appeals for an expanded federal program and increased activity by the private practitioner in combating the disease.

A $10 million federal appropriation to continue the expansion of the national venereal disease control program was recommended by three national organizations who have surveyed the problem annually for the past 10 years.

The American Social Health Assn., American Venereal Disease Assn. and Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers, in their annual joint statement on today's VD control problem, pointed out that in fiscal 1962, there were 20,084 reported cases of infectious syphilis—the highest figure in the past 12 years.

Meanwhile, a new approach to "time-tried" methods of controlling syphilis was suggested by Dr. R. H. Kampmeier of the Vanderbilt U. School of Medicine.

Since more patients are being treated in physicians' offices than in public clinics, eradication of syphilis must have as its pivot the private practitioner and will depend mainly upon cooperation between the practitioner and health authorities, he said.

Writing in the Journal of The American Medical Association, Dr. Kampmeier said that the methods of case findings and investigation of contacts developed and proved in public clinics must now be oriented to the private physician.

"It would be unrealistic to expect the practitioner to do field work in investigation of contacts, even if he had had training in its techniques," he said. "He must have help in the person of a trained interviewer."

A case reporting program in which Georgia physicians were urged to introduce trained interviewers to their patients with infectious syphilis showed "amazing success," Dr. Kampmeier commented. Between 1956 and 1959 the number of patients interviewed increased to 97% of cases reported.

"Assistance to the doctor in inquiry about contacts has developed all too slowly, though the current rising incidence of syphilis is forcing its acceleration," he said. "An extension of such services to the physician and his concurrent education to the responsibilities of reporting syphilis and preparing his patient for meeting an interviewer are the only answers to the current impasse in the eradication of syphilis."

The three groups' joint statement pointed out that during the last fiscal year, federal appropriation for venereal disease control work totaled $8 million, and said an increase of $2 million is necessary to continue needed expansion of the program.

Among findings reported in the joint statement were these:

1. Reliable estimates indicate that infectious syphilis (reported and unreported) occurs in the U.S. at a rate of 60,000 cases a year, while the number of gonorrhea cases is estimated at one million.

2. The total of 20,084 reported cases of infectious syphilis in 1962 was 7% above the 1961 total. The incidence of reported gonorrhea cases dropped 2% to 260,468.

3. People under 24 accounted for 45.7% of reported syphilis cases and 55% of reported gonorrhea cases. The 15-19 age group had the highest increase in incidence of infectious syphilis—10%.

4. Nineteen states and 44 cities reported that more than 20% of males named males as their sex partners.

5. Thirty-three states and 73 cities said prostitution was an increasing cause of venereal disease.

Birch Society Has New Look

BELMONT, Mass. (AP)—There is a new look about the operations of the John Birch Society.

Nowhere is it more apparent than at the home office in a red brick building near Belmont Center, where Robert Welch, its founder, directs the affairs of militantly conservative organization.

There is a sharp contrast with the status of the society just two years ago when a sudden surge of criticism reached even the floor of Congress, where there were demands that it be investigated.

The society still occupies half of the ground floor of the building, along with the basement.

But it has expanded its quarters, taking over the basement of an adjoining building.

Went To Harvard

There were 57 employes in 1961; there are 109 on the payroll now.

Welch is a North Carolina farm boy who after college in his home state went to the U.S. Naval Academy for two years, and to Harvard Law School for another two. Then he went into the candy business and made his fortune in a nationally known firm which bore his name. He retired in 1957 to devote full time to organization of the John Birch Society.

Welch, who decries talk of a new look, says the society isn't a secret one, but holds secret only the number of members and their identifies.

No secret, however, is his pride in the circulation of the society's monthly publication, American Opinion, which he places at more than 27,000.

Another development consists of stores across the country which sell the magazine, society pamphlets and books. Most are the exposes of communism, but there is more than liberal sprinkling of economics writings.

Pegler Contributes

Welch said there are about 125 stores handling society and other publications. Some of them are operated by John Birch members, as "American Opinion Library" shops.

The others either are independent or are general bookstores which carry books on the society list.

The society magazine, American Opinion, comes out monthly but the July and August issues are combined. It has a managing editor, Scott Stanley, and a business manager, Richard Ober, and carries articles by many writers, including Westbrook Pegler, former newspaper columnist.

There also has been a change in the society's 32-page monthly bulletin which Welch writes and edits. Welch now takes a draft of each forthcoming issue to a meeting of the society's five-member executive board, usually in Chicago.

"We go over it for discussion and suggestions," Welch said in an interview at his office. The bulletin now carries a line on the front page—"approved by the executive committee."

Welch said that doesn't represent any change in policy.

SHIPS COME FURNISHED

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — More than ships is being turned out at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.

The company also manufactures more than 90 per cent of all the furniture that goes into the ships.

For the nuclear carrier Enterprise, for example, this meant 3,600 berths for enlisted men, 404 secretary-bureaus, 253 wardrobes, 300 bookracks, 175 desks.

Also mail trays, letter drops, end tables, coffee tables, side boards, magazine racks, bulletin boards, cigar lockers, napkin closets, music cabinets and adjustable operating tables for the ship's hospital.

In most cases wooden furniture for ships presents too much of a fire hazard. Today, the mahogany, walnut and teak are replaced by enameled steel and aluminum.

Tabletops and counters are covered with plastic sheets and fire-retardant linoleum.

Persons of Italian descent constituted the largest segment of the foreign stock in the United States at the time of the 1960 census.

Ann Landers

Harping No Help

Dear Ann Landers: If I have a nervous breakdown I am going to mail the doctor bills to you because it will be your fault.

My father reads your column every day like it was a Bible. In fact, if he paid half as much attention to the Bible as he does your column we would all be better off.

Every evening he calls me into the living room and says, "Here, I want you to see this." Then he hands me your column and I have to read some crummy letter about a teenage girl who got into trouble.

He begins to yell his head off that I should behave myself or the same thing will happen to me.

I have never done anything I am ashamed of and I don't plan to. I've never written to you for advice and I'm sure I never will. Why don't you write about old ladies and pets and lay off teenage problems so I can get some rest- —MISS STEUBENVILLE

Dear Miss Steubenville: Sorry I've been causing you trouble, but I deal with the problems I get.

Pointing out "horrible examples" to teenagers serves no useful purpose. If kids are old enough to read they will see what they want to see in their newspaper and draw their own conclusions.

I hope your dad will stop shoving my column in your face. He may mean well, but continuous harping would get on anyone's nerves. If he doesn't happen to see this one, be sure to point it out to him.

Dear Ann Landers: I refer to your reply to "Delta" who wrote about her cold, undemonstrative daughter. The mother said she tried to be affectionate but the little girl pushed her away. You told her the child had probably been rejected and was returning the cold treatment.

Have you ever heard of "autistic" children? They are in a shell and do not respond to warmth or affection. These children are happiest when left alone.

If you say to an autistic child (age 4) "Tell the lady your name," he will reply, "Tell the lady your name," since he does not relate himself to others in the normal sense.

Parents who have cold, unaffectionate children are usually miserable and filled with guilt. It helps to know that some children are born that way. So why not say so? —MRS. H. L.

Dear Mrs. H. L.: There is no rule for which an exception cannot be found. Advice, regardless of how sound, cannot apply to every human and to every situation.

The autistic child is an emotionally disturbed child. A lack of warmth is only one symptom of his illness. When a child speaks and behaves as if others are not present, the parents should recognize this as an illness and that professional help is needed.

The overwhelming majority of cold, unresponsive children are not autistic, but rejected.

Dear Ann Landers: For Christmas, Bobby gave me a watch and an identification bracelet. I gave him a sweater. We were going steady at the time.

Now that we have broken up he says he wants the watch and the I. D. bracelet back. He says he would be happy to return the sweater I gave him.

I have no use for the sweater and as far as I'm concerned he can keep it. I don't know what good the watch or bracelet will be to him since my initials are engraved on both. Please tell me what to do. —KITTY CAT

Dear Cat: Return the loot and let him figure out what to do with it. If he wants to return the sweater you gave him — take it.

The idea is this, Toots: He wants to unwind completely. Be a lady and don't fight it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HE BLEW HIS STACK

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An Argentine ship captain, twice hauled into police court on charges of blowing soot onto Davis Island, gave Tampa a maritime bronx cheer as he departed the last time.

Smarting under two heavy fines, the captain let loose his ire as he passed through the ship channel close by the island, a well-to-do residential area. He blew his stacks.

Since the vessel was under way and headed for open sea, there was no way to make a third arrest. But police are patiently awaiting his return.

A modern parent goes to a psychiatrist to find out what's wrong with him when the kids go to the dogs.

June Draft Call Low At 4,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

ARM MISSILE: The Defense Department has disclosed a new missile developed to seek out and destroy enemy radiation devices —such as radar and communications equipment.

Dr. John L. McLucas, deputy director of defense research and engineering for tactical warfare programs, said whether the ARM —anti-radiation missile—is worth using "should be apparent when we get enough test missiles tested to see if they really do the job."

But, he told the National Rocket Club Tuesday night, the Pentagon feels that "right now we have a missile which is worth deploying."

DRAFT CALL: The Army's June draft quota has been set at 4,000—lowest since February.

The Defense Department estimates the quota, announced Tuesday, plus volunteers, will make the Army's June requirement of 17,000 men.

DEATH PENALTY: Forty-seven convicted criminals were executed by civil authorities in the United States last year, the Justice Department reported today.

Of the executions, 15 were carried out in the gas chamber, 29 by electrocution and 3 by hanging.

The report by the Bureau of Prisons, including tables and statistics, said 41 were executed for murder, 4 for rape, 1 for assault by a life prisoner and 1 for armed robbery.

The report noted that in 1961 only 42 persons were executed, that, it said, was the second lowest number since the national records were started in 1930.

Chrysler Head To Get UM Honor

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Lynn A. Townsend, president of the Chrysler Corp., will be honored May 3 by the University of Michigan, his alma mater, for business leadership, the U-M announced today.

Townsend, who received a BA from the university in 1940, and a Master of Business Administration with distinction in 1941, will receive the annual Business Leadership Award of the graduate school of Business Administration.

Townsend, who joined Chrysler as comptroller in 1957, will be the sixth recipient of the award. It was established by the business school student council to honor a "businessman of accomplishment who has shown an understanding of the responsibilities of business to society and an interest in business education."

Previous recipients include Michigan Gov. George Romney, former president of American Motors, Joseph M. Dodge, Donald K. David, Robert P. Briggs and Leland J. Klambach.

Youth Wounded; Rips Red Wall

BERLIN (AP)—An East German youth who smashed through Berlin's Red wall in an East German army armored car Wednesday night was reported in satisfactory condition today despite a bullet wound in his chest.

A doctor said if everything goes well, he will be out of the hospital in three weeks.

Wolfgang Engels, 19, suffered wounds in his chest and hand and multiple cuts and abrasions.

His daring escape was the talk of West Berlin today.

Engels took the Sovet-made armored car out of the East German army garage where he worked as a civilian mechanic.

Shortly before 8 o'clock Wednesday night, he careened down the east side of Elsenstrasse toward the wall, shouting, "I am going over! Who wants to go with me?"

Communist border guards fired their weapons as the nine-gun vehicle plowed into the first concrete barrier. The impact sprung the rear armor-plated doors and two bullets hit Engels.

The car got stuck in the second wall which forms the border with West Berlin.

Unable to crawl through the hole because the car was blocking it, the wounded youth climbed atop the seven-foot wall, shouting for help.

As the East Berlin guards kept firing, the youth got tangled in the barbed wire atop the wall, then pitched forward and hit the sidewalk in the West Berlin district of Neukoelln, in the American sector.

A lone West Berlin policeman, on patrol near the scene, fired several shots into the East sector in an attempt to give the youth cover. The officer was slightly injured by concrete fragments splintered off the wall by the East German bullets.

Angry West Berliners were held back from the wall by West Berlin police. Many shouted "Pigs!" and "Murderers!" as the East German guards pulled the armored car out of the debris.

Mystery Fluid Slows Up Cancer

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—There is a mysterious something in the laboratory flasks of Dr. Jorgen Fogh which somehow slows and inhibits the growth of human cancer cells.

Remarkably, the substance does not interfere with human cells grown in laboratory flasks.

Still more remarkable, it doesn't bother normal cells even when used in solutions 10,000 times as strong as those which hamper cancer growth.

Studies have continued to find out what the something is, and how it works, but it has eluded evaluation so far, Fogh told a meeting Wednesday of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Fogh came on the phenomenon while working with mixtures of colonies of cancer cells and normal cells taken from humans. By mixing these colonies with a nutrient broth, Fogh, of New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, found the cancer-inhibiting fluid.

Since then he has tried seven different kinds of human cancer cells—and in each case found that the inhibiting factor is produced.

Further studies indicate that the mystery factor may enter the heart of the cancer cell, altering its life processes.

In the past year, Fogh and fellow researchers have been able to grow stronger and stronger brews of the cancer-inhibiting fluid. They have not tried it on a living creature, although such experiments will come about eventually.

First there is much to learn about the material's mode of action and effects.

Stolen Church Money Returned

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—At 3:30 a.m. the phone rang in the rectory of St. Henry's Catholic Church.

"Is this the father?" a voice asked.

"Yes," said the Rt. Rev. Joseph A. Seiner.

"If you will look on the front seat of your car you will find the collection money we stole Sunday."

With the package of money Msgr. Seiner found a letter that said:

"We are returning this money from the robbery on Easter morning. Our need for a clear conscience is greater than our need for the money. We beg the Church's forgiveness for this great injustice toward God. We also ask the forgiveness of Michael Ignet for the blow he received during the robbery, and that by no means was this directed toward him personally."

Ignet, elderly chief usher at St. Henry's, was struck on the head with a piece of lumber and the scalp wound required 12 stitches.

"The bag he was carrying contained $180 in cash and $149 in checks," the letter said. "The checks have been destroyed.

"Some of this was spent before we reached the decision to return it. Therefore, we can only return $121 at this time. The rest of it we will pay back as soon as we can.

"Father, if we are forgiven, please put it in the paper that the money was returned and that our appeal for forgiveness has been accepted. If this attempt to undo the crime that we have committed has failed, would you please let us know through the Nashville Tennessean."

The priest asked the newspaper to print in today's editions these words from the Bible: "I will not the death of a sinner, but that he be converted and saved."

Msgr. Seiner said he will turn the letter over to police, but with a request that the investigation be dropped. He said he does not wish to press charges if the offenders are found.

Interviews With Tech Grads For Jobs Promising

HOUGTTON—The 1963 senior class at Michigan Tech faces one of the brightest employment outlooks of any graduating class in recent history, according to Richard T. Dunnebacke, director of placement.

Dunnebacke summarizes this year's recruiting activity by employers by noting " . . . this season was outstandingly busy, and the outlook for near 100 per cent placement of seniors has never looked better."

The popularity of Tech graduates among prospective employers is evidenced by a regular increase in the number of employers conducting interviews on the campus.

This year, 402 recruiters from 250 firms visited the Tech campus and conducted 5,443 interviews with 449 students. The number of firms represented on the campus increased 15 per cent over last year. It was the fourth consecutive year such a gain has been experienced, for a total increase of 62 per cent since 1959.

Last year, 351 recruiters from 218 firms visited the campus for 5,410 interviews. Forty - seven new employers were on the Tech campus this year, compared to only 39 last year.

Teacher Salaries Among Budgeting Worries Of Board

The perennial budgeting problems of the Escanaba Area Public Schools board of education is sharpened this year by the impossibility of granting pay raises to teachers — unless revenues are increased.

And the only way the school district can obtain more revenue is with the consent of the county tax allocation commission in giving the schools a higher millage; or if this fails in asking the people of the district to increase the school operating levy.

The teachers, through their Michigan Education Association local unit, have suggested to the school board that it go into deficit financing to pay higher salaries.

Salaries Too Low

"This would impress on the people that we must have more money and the crisis would have to be met," Erv Slade of the teachers salary committee told the board last night. "The teachers could then go out and help sell the proposal for higher millage to pay the deficit. We think this would pass because the people would understand our situation."

The school board was not so optimistic. Slade and Darryl Bengry of the MEA salary committee were told by board members that recent experience in school elections indicates that the people are more likely to reject millage increases for any cause.

There was agreement that the salaries of the teachers are too low, but the board and the committee disagreed as to the possibility of finding additional revenues; and the board was agreed that it wants to continue "pay as you go" fiscal policy so long as possible.

Ask 8.58 Mills

E. G. Bennett, board president, who also represents the Escanaba Area School district on the county tax allocation board, pointed out that:

The budget submitted to the county tax board calls for an increase in salaries for teachers; that last year the schools lost about $30,000 in revenue because a differential millage for schools could not be applied in the district, and the rate was lowered to 7.25 mills; that there is little prospect that the schools will receive much more if any millage from the tax allocation board this year.

"We are asking for 8.58 mills for the schools, based on our budget that would give the teachers the salary increases they should have — and if the millage request is turned down by the allocation board we might then go to the people for a vote on more revenues," said Bennett.

Salary Request

The board previously heard the salary committee and has in meetings of committees discussed the salary problems and the teacher requests.

The teachers are asking for a salary schedule that would increase starting salaries for bachelor degrees from $4,350 to $4,500 and would provide a top salary of $6,847 at 20 years; increase starting salary for teachers with masters degrees from $4,660 to $4,800 and provide for a top salary of $7,720 at 20 years.

Slade and Bengry urged the board to meet with the teachers in a group meeting for a further discussion of the salary requests. The board declined because, it said, no benefit could result and through its committee the teachers have already been informed of the financial situation of the district.

May Not Sign

"We will meet this week and you will have the answer of the board soon," Bennett told the committee. "We have increased salaries each year. Now we do not have the money. You can be pretty sure we are not going into deficit spending. But we may suggest going to the voters."

"I can tell you the teachers said they are not going to sign their contracts," Slade told the board.

"I do not like ultimatums," Bennett replied. "There's just so much money in the kitty, and that's it."

The board in reviewing its budget problems noted that because of the late arrival of state aid last year it had to borrow funds and paid $7,000 interest on loans. It still owes $120,000 which is expected to be repaid from anticipated state aid by July 1.

An increase in taxable valuation in the Escanaba Area school district will benefit the schools by only $2,280 because of the state's "deductible millage" formula, said Bennett "The county will get the full benefit of the valuation increase; the schools do not," he said.

Contracts were approved by the board for three new teachers:

Mrs. J. Dorothy Jones, Sault Ste. Marie, to teach art in the Junior High School. She will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Peggy Kranstover, who is being married. Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and has taught at Flint, Traverse City, Hibbing, Minn., and the Sault.

Mrs. Valerie Haack, Escanaba, to teach in the elementary grades. She has taught 12 years at Battle Creek and Muskegon, is a graduate of Central Michigan University.

Miss Theresa Mary Rose, Rudyard., graduate of Northern Michigan University with work beyond masters degree at Case Institute of Technology and Michigan State University. Eight years experience. To teach chemistry in Senior High.

On the basis of budget requirements, there will be only teaching principals in the elementary schools of the district next year, which Supt. Bright described as "a backward step."

Drug Deforms 16 Babies In U. S. A., Report Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixteen babies in the United States are believed to have been deformed by thalidomide distributed by U.S. firms, the Food and Drug Administration reports.

In a final report on its intensive investigation of the drug that is held responsible for the birth of 7,000 deformed infants in Europe, the FDA said 2.5 million tablets were distributed in this country.

The FDA report, given to a House Appropriations subcommittee, says an investigation is still under way to determine whether the William S. Merrell Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, violated the law by the manner in which it distributed thalidomide in this country.

Tech School Sale Planned By Board

Sale of the Catherine Bonifas Technical School building at 1601 Ludington St. and the use of the funds to construct a cafeteria at the Junior High School is proposed by the Escanaba Area Public Schools board of education.

The Tech school building will be abandoned in September this year when the technical school is opened in the new Area High School on S. 23rd St.

The school board after hearing a report by Supt. Walter Bright on the need for cafeteria facilities at the Junior High so that an improved curriculum program and schedule can be put into effect next year set the date of May 28 for the opening of bids for the sale of the Technical School building.

Appraised value of the building is in excess of $70,000, said the superintendent. The brick building, formerly an office for a brewery, has a full basement and two floors and is about 35 by 140 feet. The property has a 50 foot frontage on Ludington St.

A separate building of the so-called steel Butler type is proposed to be built at the north end of the present Junior High building would serve the needs of the students as an eating place, with food to be brought hot from the kitchens of the new Senior High, Supt. Bright said.

Placing the cafeteria within the Junior High would use up valuable classroom space.

Farmers Making Good Progress In Early Planting

LANSING (AP) — Michigan farmers are making good progress with their early planting, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

Two fifths of the oat crop was planted in southern counties and one third of the crop was in for the entire state by the end of last week. This compared with only one tenth planted last year at this time.

More than one seventh of the sugar beet crop was planted. Barley, early potatoes and hardy vegetable also were being planted.

Field work was a few days ahead of normal. Field activities included putting top dressing on wheat, hauling fertilizer and pruning and spraying fruit trees. Maple syrup was still being made in northern counties.

How the New Measles Vaccines Compare

The Live Virus Vaccine

1. Live virus vaccine is made of viruses that have been "tamed" to avoid harm to the child inoculated.
2. One shot protects more than 95 per cent of children inoculated. Some children will show symptoms resembling mild cases of measles. But . . .
3. Undesirable reactions can, in most cases, be prevented if the child gets a shot of gamma globulin at same time he is given the measles shot.
4. Immunity to measles is known to last at least four years if live virus shot is given alone; three years when gamma globulin is given at the same time. Time will tell if immunity lasts longer, perhaps for life.
5. Vaccine protects against "Red" measles only — the 7-to-14-day variety. It won't prevent three-day German measles or other virus infections that produce rashes.
6. There are certain persons who should NOT be inoculated with the live virus vaccine. Your doctor will check for conditions which make its use inadvisable.

The Killed Virus Vaccine

1. Vaccine in which killed viruses are used to produce immunity is of the type best known to most of us through use of the Salk polio vaccine.
2. At least 90 per cent of children who get "killed" virus vaccine develop immunity. Three shots spaced a month apart are required.
3. Reaction to the shots is minimal. If any occurs, it is apt to show as brief soreness where needle entered skin, and/or mild fever.
4. How long immunity lasts hasn't been determined, but a fourth shot of killed vaccine indicates immunity lasts at least a year, because it works like a booster shot.
5. Vaccine protects against "Red" measles only — the 7-to-14-day variety. It won't prevent three-day German measles or other virus infections that produce rashes.
6. Killed vaccine can be given to anyone.

Medicine's new weapon against measles — News-Graphic, above, tells the stories of the new measles vaccines. Live virus vaccine is being made available to physicians now. Killed virus vaccine will be in the medical pipeline in a very few weeks. As with all medical developments, check with your own physician, who knows your family's medical picture, to determine your health requirements.

Judith's father was the late Douglas Surrell of this city.

A vast underground network is being built in the Soviet Union—a network of pipelines carrying oil from Russia's rich fields to the rest of the world. Soviet production increased more than 28 per cent between 1959 and 1961, over twice as fast as the non-Communist world's 12 per cent increase. The Soviets have now edged Venezuela out of second place next to the United States. Soviet oil expansion is cause for alarm in the West, because Soviet price-fixing allows them to undersell Western oil in many instances, thus weakening Western economic ties.

Permits Now Needed To Burn

The Conservation Department reports burning permits are now required to burn fields and brush and for general spring cleanup. No fire should be set when a high wind is blowing, and a fire line should be made around the area to be burned, it notes. The department was called Saturday when eight acres burned in grass and brush area near Green School. The call was the first of the season.

No fire should be left unattended and a sufficient force should be present when burning to control the fire. A person who wilfully, negligently or carelessly sets a fire which injures or endangers property of another may be prosecuted and be liable for expenses incurred by the state in suppression of the fire, George W. Young, forest fire officer reports.

like looking for someone who doesn't read newspapers

Very hard to find. 99 million people in almost 9 out of every 10 homes read newspapers. It's the most sought after, often bought, eagerly consumed, intensely depended upon product in the world. The reason is obvious. We can't do without it. The need to know about the news and events that touch and shape our lives is deep, intense, unending. And the need to know is now. Today. So it's not very hard to figure out why more advertising dollars are spent in daily newspapers than in TV, magazines, radio, and outdoor combined.

Pro Football Stars Suspended For Gambling

Paul Hornung, Karras Jolted; Others Fined

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Professional football on both sides of the border slammed its doors today on two suspended stars of the National Football League and rallied behind NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle in his smashing blow at gambling influences.

A penitent Paul Hornung and an outraged Alex Karras, two of the sport's biggest names caught in the web of the latest sports scandal, apparently were left with no recourse except possible future forgiveness of the league—not earlier than 1964.

The rival American League, battling the NFL for the spectator dollar, and the Canadian League, a refuge for ousted American players in the past, said they have no place for the two players accused of wagering on games.

"Under no circumstances will they be permitted to play in the American Football League until their suspensions are lifted," Joe Foss, commissioner of the AFL, said in a formal statement in Dallas.

No Fix Charges

Sidney Halter, commissioner of the Canadian League, said: "I would refuse to register any contract submitted by a CFL club with a player suspended by an American league for betting on games."

Hornung, halfback and frequent scoring leader of the champion Green Bay Packers, and Karras, 250-pound tackle of the Detroit Lions, drew indefinite suspensions Wednesday in a sweeping action by Rozelle that also resulted in fines for five other Detroit players and a $4,000 penalty against the Detroit club.

Paul Hornung

Hornung and Karras were accused of making bets on games, usually in the $50 to $200 range, over a period of years. The commissioner said there was no evidence of any so-called "fixes." That is, they were not found to have bet against their own club, sold information to gamblers or shaved points.

The other five players, each fined $2,000 for betting $50 apiece on Green Bay to beat the New York Giants in the 1962 playoff game, were: John Gordy, guard; Gary Lowe, defensive back; Joe Schmidt, all-league middle linebacker; Wayne Walker, linebacker, and Sam Williams, defensive end, all of the Lions.

Detroit Team Fined

Detroit was fined for failing to take proper action on undesirable associations reported by police.

Alex Karras

Rozelle, in announcing the result of extensive investigations which included 52 separate interviews, emphasized "there is no evidence that any NFL player has given less than his best in playing any game."

He made it clear, however, that he will not tolerate gambling of any sort in the league nor permit association of players with characters who might create public suspicion. In this stand, he had virtually the unanimous support of the league directors, his bosses.

Hornung, 27, a handsome bachelor who might double as a matinee idol, was subdued and humble when he received the news at his home in Louisville.

"I did wrong," he said. "I should be penalized. I just have to stay with it."

He said he does not plan an appeal from the suspension. He indicated he will work toward a review of his case and ultimate reinstatement—which isn't possible, Rozelle said, before next year.

The former Notre Dame star, leeading scorer in the NFL in 1959, 1960 and 1961 and most valuable player in 1961, said all his bets were of the sociable variety.

"Made With Friends"

"They were made with friends, strictly sporting," he added. "I always gave 100 per cent of every game I played in." He said he probably made eight or nine bets, $100 and $200 each.

Rozelle said Hornung's betting habits stemmed from his acquaintance with a West Coast businessman, whom Horung met in 1956 in San Francisco. Investigation showed Horung placed several bets through this friend, the commissioner added, saying in one year the triple threat halfback made $1,500.

Karras' reaction to the suspension was entirely different.

"It comes as a shock to me," the big lineman, also 27, a one-time All-America at Iowa, said at his home in Detroit. "I haven't done anything I am ashamed of and I am not guilty of anything."

He said he had hired an attorney and planned to fight the league action. However, he could not hide his pessimism. He said he figured the ban is for life and that he and a group of friends are going ahead with plans to operate a Detroit bar.

At Least Six Bets

Rozelle said Karras had made at least six bets since 1958 through a business associate. The commissioner said that the bets were for $50 until last year when the Detroit tackle bet $100 on the Lions to beat Green Bay on Thanksgiving Day—which they did—and $100 on the Packers against the Giants in the title game, won by Green Bay 16-7.

Karras was called on the carpet by Rozelle in mid-January after he had revealed in a television interview that he sometimes bet on games. He was accused by Detroit police of associating with "known hoodlums."

Among the NFL owners, the only discordant note on Rozelle's action—and it was a mild one—was voiced by William Clay Ford, president of the Lions.

He said the Lions will comply fully with the commissioner's order but added: "Compliance does not mean that we agree with the nature or extent of the penalties imposed."

Casares Is Cleared

Rozlle, 37, indicated that his office had no further evidence of irregularities.

Asked about Rick Casares, Chicago Bears' fullback whose name had been mentioned in investigations, he said: "The league had found no evidence to support such charges." He said a probe of allegations that Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, bet on games is not completed.

This is the first big scandal to hit the NFL since the 1946 championship game between the New York Giants and Chicago Bears.

Merle Hapes, a Giant halfback, was suspended for not reporting a conversation with a gambler under investigation for game-fixing. Later, Frank Filchock, the Giants' quarterback, also was suspended.

Both were restored to good standing by Commissioner Bert Bell but not before Filchock had played several years in the Canadian league.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, is pictured as he announced his findings concerning an investigation into pro football betting of players in the league. Rozelle announced the indefinite suspension of Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions and the fining of the Detroit club and five other Detroit players. ## Gus Snaps Slump To Pace Tigers Over Yanks, 4-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Catcher Gus Triandos snapped out of a lengthy hitting streak — he'd gone hitless in 18 straight appearances — and paced the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday.

The triumph enabled the Tigers to take over sole possession of first place for the first time since July, 1961.

Triandos, who connected for only two hits in the first six games, had a home run, double and single and knocked in three runs.

Don Mossi scattered 10 hits and picked up his second victory of the campaign. The only runs scored off him were homers by Hector Lopez in the second and Elston Howard in the ninth.

The homer by Lopez gave Ralph Terry a 1-0 lead which held up until the seventh inning.

In the seventh, Rocky Colavito doubled, moved to third on a fly to center by Norm Cash and scored on Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice fly. Triandos then picked on Terry's first pitch and parked it in the left field stands to give the Bengals the lead for the first time. It was the Tiger catcher's second homer of the season.

The long drive was the fourth home run in three games off Terry, who led the AL in homers allowed last season.

Detroit picked up two more runs off reliever Hal Reniff in the ninth. Colavito singled and moved up on a passed ball before Cash was hit with a pitch. After McAuliffe forced Cash, Triandos looped a double into short right to drive in Colavito and McAuliffe.

Howard's homer opened the nintn inning for the Yankees, but Mossi set down the next three batters on infield grounders and picked up his 16th victory in 30 lifetime decisions against New York.

The Tigers were idle today and will open a four-game weekend series at Boston with a morning-afternoon doubleheader tomorrow.

Central Edges Kalamazoo 10-8

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — A near-perfect relief job by pitcher Paul Peterson saved a 10-8 victory by Central Michigan over Kalamazoo Wednesday.

Peterson, the third CMU pitcher, struck out nine batters in the last four innings and received credit for the victory—Central's eighth straight and 10th in 11 games.

First baseman Lee Goulet led the winners at the plate with two home runs and four runs batted in. Gary Harrington had three singles in the 13-hit attack.

Detroit Titans Top Wayne State

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit scored four runs in the first three innings and went on to gain a 6-3 baseball victory over Wayne State Wednesday.

Lou Rodomski picked up the victory, while Ed Krass was charged with the loss. Both pitchers had 10 strikeouts.

Gravelle Barely Misses

Wahowiak-Lundmark Take Lead In Doubles Division

GLADSTONE — Dells Supper Club keglers, who wrote Upper Peninsula Men's bowling tournament history last weekend, penned a footnote to their 1963 chapter at the Midway Alleys Wednesday night.

Ray Wahowiak and Charley Lundmark slugged the pins for a 1,301 total to move into first place in the reguar doubles division, topping the 1,249 score by Con Lempesis and Ev Senobe of Marquette.

Ed Gravelle made a strong run at the singles and all events leader, Mel Hirvonen of Marquette.

Gravelle crashed a 699 series in the singles and came up with a 1,969 total in all events. Hirvonen's leading scores in those divisions are an all-time record 1,979, and 705.

Only an error in an early frame of his final game, in which he missed a one-pin spare, kept Gravelle from taking the lead in both divisions.

Wahowiak also moved into the top five in the all events with a 1,863 score and Gravelle and Tony Gillis took over fifth place in the doubles with 1,208.

Lundmark rolled a 633 and Wahowiak a 638 in snaring first place in the doubles. They are only the third duo in the 53 year history of the tournament to top the 1,300 mark. The all-time record is 1,319, set by B. Aken and V. Beattle of Munising in 1946.

To reach their near-record total, Lundmark and Wahowiak staged a furious finish in their final games. Lundmark cracked 257 and Wahowiak 243 to finish off their doubles efforts.

In his charge for the singles lead, Gravelle put together games of 235, 242 and 222 for the third highest score ever rolled in the U. P. tournament. Gravelle's all events total of 1,969 came on series scores of 617 in the team event, 653 in the doubles and 699 in the singles.

There were two new leaders posted in the minor division as well. with Ray Roy Jr., and Clyde Anderson of Escanaba taking over the top spot in the doubles with a 1,200 total. Former leaders were Ray Kaunisto and Art Roo of Soo with 1,181.

Roy moved into third place in the all events with 1,715 and Anderson into fifth place with 1,702.

Bill Sather of Gwinn is the new all events leader in the minor division with a 1,745 total.

Marble Arms of Gladstone joined the team leaders, taking third place with 2,767.

Two Records Set By Abe Woodson

NEW YORK (AP)—Swift Abe Woodson of San Francisco set two National Football League records last season en route to the league's individual title in kickoff returns.

The official league statistics, released today, show Woodson averaged 31.3 yards on his returns, edging out Johnny Counts of New York, who had an average of 30.2 yards.

Woodson returned a record 37 kickoffs for a record 1,157 yards, just under two-thirds of a mile.

The standings are computed on the basis of average return. Only players with 14 or more returns qualify for the individual championship.

Lakers Put End To Celt String

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry West and Elgin Baylor played superlative basketball and gave the Los Angeles Lakers their first victory over the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association championship series Wednesday night 119-99.

The Celtics now lead the best-of-seven series 2-1. They took the first two in Boston. The fourth game, to be played here Friday night, is sold out.

"Friday's fourth game will be the key to this series," said Capt. Bob Cousy after the Celtics lost. "We suffered a natural letdown. But then, we didn't figure to beat a good club like Los Angeles three straight.

"If we win Friday, the series won't go seven games."

Coach Fred Schaus of the Lakers said West's sensational play Wednesday was the greatest he has recorded as a collegian or pro. Schaus coached West at West Virginia.

"He simply had everything," said Schaus. "He was hitting from the corners and his outside jumpers were never better. He made some great driving lay-ups, and he blocked several Boston shots."

West connected on 17 of 30 shots from the floor. The 6-foot-3 star had eight rebounds. He was the game's high scorer with 42 points. Baylor, who had 38 points, held a 23-19 advantage over Boston's Bill Russell in the rebound department. The Lakers out-rebounded the Celtics 65-42, and that usually decides basketball games.

Softball Season Plans Set; Field Will Be Rebuilt

The Escanaba Softball Assn., eyeing its 35th successive year of operation, laid plans for the 1963 season at a meeting of officers and board members Wednesday night.

Bill Lancour, new president of the association, outlined plans and objectives for the season, including repairs to the grounds and lighting system at Memorial Field, rebuilding of the Memorial Field diamond and an advance sale of season tickets.

The infield at Memorial, in need of improvement for several years, will be ripped up and rebuilt this spring.

Directors voted to replace much of the backstop screen and have necessary work done on the lighting system.

"We expect to be able to open our season in about a month," Lancour stated. "To do so, we will need the usual cooperation of players in work bees and other sessions at the diamond," he added. Schedule of work sessions will be posted in the near future.

One of the major reasons for the proposed face lifting at Memorial Field is to support the association's bid for an Upper Peninsula championship tournament this year, the board indicated. Escanaba will bid for the U. P. tourney in either Class A or B.

Season tickets will be offered to the public in advance, with players and managers slated to make the sale in the downtown area prior to the opening of the season.

Acting on a request from a newly organized girls' softball league, the board voted to provide Memorial Field facilities to the fairer sex on Friday nights and Saturday afternoons. It was pointed out that the crowded schedule of American and National League games at Memorial during the week prevented more generous use of the area to other organizations.

Lancour announced that the general meeting of the association will be held in about two weeks, at which time final plans for the season will be made. All players, managers and other interested persons are invited to attend, he stated, and teams in both leagues must be represented.

The Escanaba Softball Assn., a non-profit organization that has conducted the sport here since 1929, has been assured by city officials that it will retain use of the Memorial Field site for at least one year.

Don Lee Beats Former Mates

By The Associated Press

Don Lee, Los Angeles' pitching professor, seems just about ready to teach American League batters a thing or two about the art of hurling.

The right-hander turned in a three-hit, 4-0 shutout against his former Minnesota teammates Wednesday.

Lee, 29, was a slightly confused young man when he came to the Angels last May in a trade for pitcher Jim Donohue. The Twins had "tried to change my delivery," says Lee, who admits "I didn't feel settled until I got with the Angels."

Against the Twins Lee struck out three while walking only one and was touched only for singles —by Bernie Allen in the third inning, Vic Power in the fourth and Lenny Green in the ninth. Not a base runner reached third.

Gus Triandos, obtained from Baltimore, drove in three runs with a tie-breaking homer and a double as Detroit took over first place by whipping the New York Yankees 4-2. Johnny Orsino, Al Smith and Stu Miller led Baltimore to a 5-4 triumph over Boston.

The Washington-Cleveland game was rained out. Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox were not scheduled.

Jake Wood of the Detroit Tigers had a fine stolen base average last season — 24 for 27.

Detroit Wings: Win Or Get Out

TORONTO (AP) — It's win or get out for the Detroit Red Wings tonight while the relaxed and confident Toronto Maple Leafs enjoy the luxury of two more chances if necessary to retain the Stanley Cup.

Tonight's fifth game of the best-of-7 series for the National Hockey League trophy could be the clincher for the Leafs.

It'll be played at Maple Leaf Gardens, where Detroit suffered its first two losses in the playoff finals and won only twice in seven games during the regular season.

"We've been in tough spots before and bounced back," said Coach Sid Abel, whose Red Wings are down 3-1 in the series.

The Wings were a streaky club all season, going hot and then cold. Their hot streaks of 10 unbeaten games right at the start and four straight victories at the end helped the fourth-place club finish only five points behind first-place Toronto.

Again in the semifinal playoffs, the Red Wings showed this streaky tendency and won plaudits as a bounce-back team. The Chicago Black Hawks knocked them off the first two games—and then the Wings became hot again and won the next four.

"I felt we played our best hockey when we came back in the Chicago series," Abel said, "and I feel we played just as well, maybe better, Tuesday night when we lost in Detroit."

That third loss sent Toronto into its commanding edge and started Coach Punch Imlach predicting the Leafs would wrap up the cup for the second straight year tonight.

"They've seen their last hockey this year in Detroit," Imlach said. "I like the odds right now."

Hard To Match Tough Luck Dogging Hurler Bob Miller

By The Associated Press

For tough luck with an unusual twist, you'd have to go far to beat life with the hitless wonders as experienced by Bob Miller, the persistent right-hander kissed by Lady Luck, then smacked in the kisser by Dame Fortune.

Miller, who last year struggled through 12 consecutive defeats with the New York Mets before winning on the next-to-last day of the season, got the big smile from the Lady when he was traded to Los Angeles' National League pennant contenders.

Then the Dame shoved the Lady out of the picture.

Miller pitched 7 2-3 innings of scoreless ball against Houston in his first start and left with no score in the game. Wednesday night he made his second start and allowed only three hits as Los Angeles edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0 in 10 innings.

Miller left for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning.

The unusual also happened at San Francisco, where Colts engineered a triple steal for one run, then beat the Giants 2-1 in the 13th inning when catcher Jim Campbell hit a homer.

Milwaukee moved into first place with its sixth straight victory, 6-5 over Philadelphia. Cincinnati handed the winless New York Mets their eighth setback, 5-0 behind Jim O'Toole's five-hit pitching and St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 7-3.

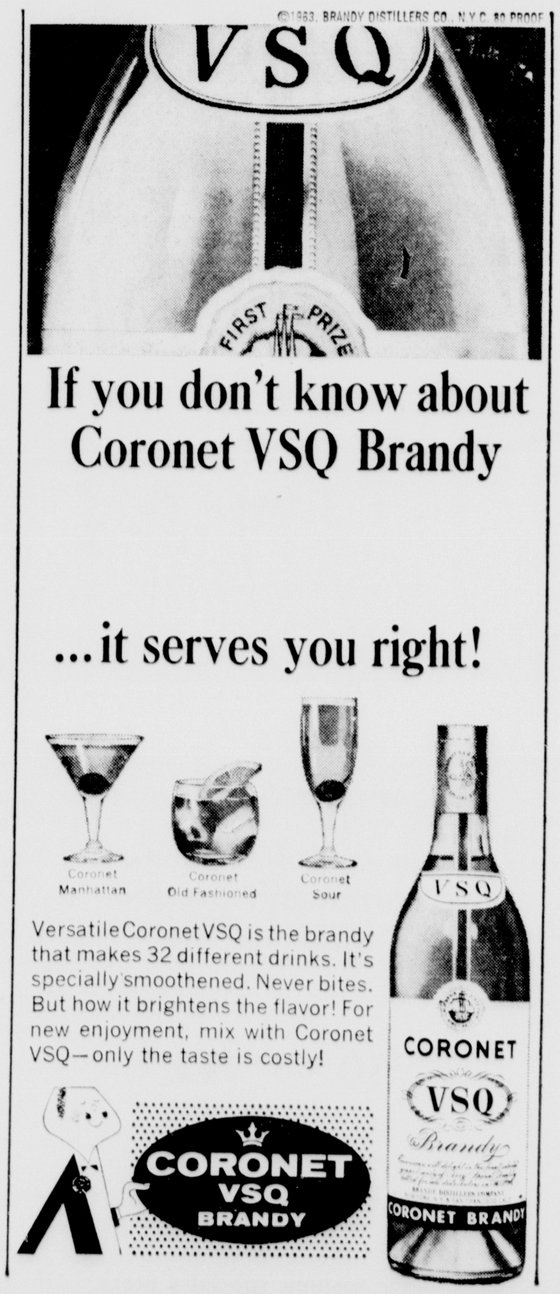

The Dodgers got to Dick Ellsworth for the game's lone run in the 10th on singles by Lee Walls, Frank Howard and Bill Skowron. Ellsworth, 2-0 had pitched 18 2-3 scoreless innings before Skowron drove in his first NL run. The victory went to Ron Perranoski, working in relief of Miller.

The Colts pushed across their first run against Billy O'Dell when the Giants' starter went to a full windup with the bases loaded in the second inning. Howie Goss slid home ahead of Tom Haller's tag. Willie McCovey's ninth inning homer off Ken Johnson tied it before Campball hit the game-winner off Don Larsen in the 13th.

The Braves used three Phillies' errors for three runs and held on as former teammate Wes Covington hit a solo homer and Don Demeter blasted a pair, each with one man on. Demeter's second homer brought on Claude Raymond, who preserved Lew Burdette's second victory without a loss. Paul Brown was the loser.

O'Toole got all the working room he needed when Johnny Edwards hit a grand slam homer off Mets starter Carl Willey in the first inning.

The Cardinals jolted loser Don Cardwell for four runs in the second inning on consecutive homers by Stan Musial and Carl Sawatski plus Curt Flood's single. Ray Washburn brought his record to 2-0 with a six-hitter.

Buyers Lured By Sports Cars

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Auto Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Visitors at the International Automobile Show now running at the New York Coliseum are assailed from every side by a dazzling array of sports cars.

The merchandise is for sale. Orders are willingly taken on the floor. But the president of one of the largest importers of sports cars says he hopes people who have never driven one will rent or borrow for awhile before buying.

"I'd much rather they tried one first," said J. J. L. Suffield, head of British Motor Corp.'s operations in North America. "If they bought and then wish like everything two months later that they haven't, they don't do us any good."

Suffield and many others in the field agree sports cars are specialty cars, basically fun to drive but not especially comfortably for long turnpike cruises.

By concentrating on sports cars, BMC has boosted its sales in the United States at a time when the import market generally has been slipping. Included in the BMC stable are the new MGB, the MG midget, the Sprite, the Austin Healey and the new MG sedan. Suffield predicts his sales will rise from 22,000 last year to 40,000 this year.

"We probably could sell more. With new models there is always more demand than supply and the MGB is the first all new MG in seven years. But this also would mean a lot of peaks and valleys. I'd much rather have a planned, slower expansion."

Sports cars almost always are two seaters—the original bucket seats—for two people. They ride hard and their detractors often refer to them as having square wheels.

Suffield says this hard riding results directly from the stiff suspension system, which in turn is necessary for the concerning abilities in which they excel.

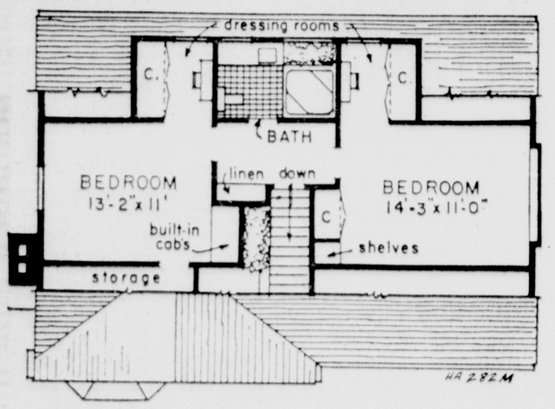

His cars, Suffield says, incorporate the "things we've found out on the winding, twisty roads of Europe. After all, a turnpike is no place to learn about concerning. But if you go from London to Birmingham and want to get there in a hurry, you know all about cornering."

The phrase, The Four Hundred, entered the vocabulary in 1888.
